WHAT THE ELECTORS WANT TO KNOW

WHAT THE ELECTORS

Mr. Templeman cannot hope to hide behind his newspaper. In a political campaign he must be held to take the responsibility of what is alleged in his behalf in his own paper. We therefore ask him to explain, and preferably over his own signature, and we will print, if he wishes, his answers in the Colonist:

1st. Why did the Times garble the instructions issued to the immigration officers?

2nd. Did he know that these instructions had been issued?

3rd. Did he assent to the issuing of these instructions?

4th. Was he consulted before the instructions were issued?

5th. On what request were these instructions issued?

6th. Were they issued on the request of Mr. Hays, of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway?

7th. Did not Mr. Hays to Mr. Templeman's knowledge ask that Orientals might be admitted to work upon that railway?

8th. Does Mr. Templeman deny that men who enter the country with documentary evidence that they are going to permanent employment are to all intents and purposes contract laborers?

9th. Does Mr. Templeman approve of the policy set forth in the instructions?

10th. Does Mr. Templeman approve of railway contractors bringing men into the country from the United States at a time when hundreds of capable Canadians are out of employment?

11th. Has not evidence been placed before Mr. Templeman and the government that there are such men in Canada?

12th. Did the Trades and Labor council or any other body representing labor ask that permission be given to the department of immigration to issue the instructions referred to?

13th. Does Mr. Templeman believe that his government in granting permission to alien labor to come into Canada is catering to the masses or the classes. His paper says that Mr. Barnard's interests are opposed to the masses and hand in hand with the classes.

14th. Will Mr. Templeman now explain his position with the classes and his absolute betrayal of the masses?

United labor in this city demands an answer to the above questions.

Canada's Alien Labor Law

The following are the two clauses in the Alien Labor act of Canada, which have been contravened through the action of the Dominion government in permitting a relaxation in its immigration law:

2. It shall be unlawful for any person, company, partnership or corporation, in any manner to prepay the transportation or in any way to assist, encourage or solicit the importation or immigration of any alien or foreigner into Canada, under contract or agreement, parole or special, express or implied, made previous to the importation or immigration of such alien or foreigner, to perform labor or service of any kind in Canada. 60-61 V., c. 11, s. 1.

3. For every violation of any of the provisions of the last preceding section, the person, partnership, company or corporation violating it by knowingly assisting, encouraging or soliciting the immigration or importation of any alien or foreigner into Canada to perform labor or service of any kind under contract or agreement, expressed or implied, parole or special, with such alien or foreigner previous to such alien or foreigner becoming a resident in or a citizen of Canada, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, and not less than fifty dollars. 1 E. VII., c. 13, s. 1.

Through the violation of the above clauses hundreds of foreign workmen have been brought into British Columbia while something in the neighborhood of a thousand laborers in Vancouver and Victoria have been unable to obtain employment.

Burking the Issue.

The Victoria Times yesterday in attempting to explain away the action of the Dominion Government in relaxing certain clauses of the immigration act in order to allow alien railroad laborers to come and work in Canada, published to suit its own purposes only a portion of the instructions issued by Mr. W. D. Scott, superintendant of immigration, to his agents throughout Canada. It purposely avoided publishing the full text, but the Colonist will again do so, after first reproducing the Times excerpt, as follows:

"This year railroad laborers going to assured permanent employment at construction will be admitted to Canada from the first of May until the 30th of September, both dates inclusive, irrespective of money qualifications or continuous journey, provided they are natives or citizens of the countries, or some one of the countries, in which immigration effort is made by Canada."

The full text of the communication from Mr. W. D. Scott is reproduced again hereunder and from it will be seen the reason why the Times witheld a portion of its contents. The electors need no guidance to discover why that portion was witheld from publicity. The notice follows:

Notice.

Office of the Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, March 1st, 1911.

In order to meet the demand for railroad laborers in Canada last year the regulations relating to money qualifications and "Continuous journey" were relaxed for a certain period.

This year railroad laborers going to assured permanent employment at construction will be admitted to Canada from the first of May until the 30th of September, both dates inclusive, irrespective of money qualifications or continuous journey provided they are natives or citizens of the countries, or some one of the countries, in which immigration effort is being made by Canada, i.e., Great Britain, Ireland, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, or the United States of America, and provided also that the immigrants are suited to railroad work and are in all other respects desirable, have sufficient money to carry them to the work for which they are engaged, and documentary or other sufficient evidence of definite employment to go to,

On the first of October, 1911, this relaxation of the regulations will come to an end, without further notice.

W. D. SCOTT,
Superintendent of Immigration.

Discriminating Against the British

To the Editor: Sir—I see by this morning's paper that the government of Canada has issued orders to admit laborers from the United States to work for contractors without any money qualification, while a Britisher must produce the coin.

I learn also that the British immigrant has been officially notified from the office of the high commissioner in London not to go to Canada, as there is no work for him.

The Standard of Empire, published in London, in its issue of July 28, had the following notification:

"Lord Strathcona, high commissioner for Canada, is informed by cablegram from the minister of the interior at Ottawa, that there is no shortage of labor for railway construction in Canada, as railroad men are coming from the United States where they are out of work." GEORGE JEEVES.

An Object Lesson

The following is a dispatch appearing in yesterday's Times:

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 30.—Following a plan of retrenchment, railroads of the country in the last year have laid off 81,870 men effecting a net annual saving in the operating expenses of $94,000,000, according to a report made public here. The method of economy has been adopted by sixty per cent of all the roads and is rapidly spreading to the remaining lines.

The decrease in expenses and maintenance is said to be the result of the action of the interstate commerce commission which refused to allow the roads to put into effect an increase of freight rates. The largest reductions are found among the trackmen, shopmen and miscellaneous employees. The report containing these figures may, it is said, have an important bearing upon the widespread unrest in the ranks of the shopmen on the Harriman lines.

That the dispute with the shopmen on the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Illinois Central and other lines may extend to other railway systems was indicated today when shopmen employed by the Northwestern road are reported to have given notice that with the expiration of the present wage agreement next month an increase will be demanded.

Has a more remarkable statement ever been published? It seems incredible that the advocates of reciprocity can conscientiously face an audience in any part of the Dominion and expect to be believed when they state that Canada is to become and remain prosperous by joining forces with a country and a people that points so strongly to disruption, distress and hard times. The figures are strikingly close upon a labor and financial crisis. We ask organized labor to analyse the statement. Eight-one thousand eight hundred and seventy men have been laid off during the year—meaning a loss in wages of ninety-four millions of dollars. With these facts before you it might be well to consider how you shall mark your ballot. The government, represented by the Hon. Wm. Templeman, Mr. Duncan Ross and the free trader, Mr. Ralph Smith, admits aliens into Canada to work upon railway construction. If they are elected and their government sustained on September 21st it is impossible to forecast what their next actions may be.

A vote for Messrs. Templeman, Ross, Smith, etc. means a vote against the most prosperous of His Majesty's Dominions beyond the seas.

It was Mr. Barnard who drew the attention of the government to alien labor crossing the border, but the minister of the interior remained silent, and we have no evidence that Mr. Templeman or Mr. Ralph Smith continued the fight in the interests of organized labor, after Mr. Barnard had made known the facts.

Unanswered Questions

Following are some of the questions unanswered by the Hon. Wm. Templeman, Mr. Duncan Ross and Mr. Ralph Smith (free trader).

If the consumer is to have cheaper food how is the grower to receive more for his product?

Why did Sir Wilfrid say that he thanked Heaven that reciprocity was no longer thought of between Canada and the United States, that he desired to push British trade as opposed to American trade and that trade should flow from east to west and west to east. Sir Wilfrid in 1907 said:

"So far as legislation can influence trade we have done everything possible to push our trade toward the British people as against the American people . . . Not only have we done it by preference, by legislation, but we have forced our trade against the laws of nature and geography. . . . We have done everything possible by building canals and subsidizing railways to bring the trade from the west to the east and east to the west so as to bring trade into British channels. . . . It never was intended nor thought of at the time that this intermediate tariff could apply to the United States. There was a time when we wanted reciprocity with them, but our efforts and our offers were negatived and put aside, and we have said good-bye to that trade, and we have put all our hopes on British trade now.

Surely some tangible explanation can be given by Sir Wilfrid's cabinet minister, the Hon. Wm. Templeman, that will enable the electors to judge for themselves as to whether or not Canada's prime minister has some special dispensation for doing and saying things that seem strange to the man who likes to know, and is expected to vote intelligently on September 21st.

RECIPROCITY, A STEPPING STONE

It is to be hoped that reciprocity will not be defeated in the coming elections in Canada, where where it is now the main political issue. That this large-minded measure may be vetoed by the popular vote of the Canadian people it is impossible to believe. The result of the elections will be watched for as eagerly in this country as they will be in Canada.

So far-seeing and statesmanlike a measure has seldom been conceived by American statesmen or invested with the sanction of law by the American Congress. The mere commercial aspect of reciprocity should be, and is, a minor consideration. Higher than this is the drawing closer together politically of the two countries which will be the result of triumph for reciprocity.

Most of our contemporaries in the press are publishing editorials in which it is repeated again and again that a political union of Canada and the United States is not the ulterior object of reciprocity. These editorials are written no doubt for Canadian consumption, but we do not believe the thinking portion of the Canadian public can have such a deep-rooted objection to the annexation of Canada to the United States, an object the accomplishment of which must be the governing motive of this country in its attitude toward its northern neighbor.

We see no reason for the hypocrisy and dissimulation which form the keynote of the expressed opinions of many of our newspapers on the reciprocity issue. Reciprocity is desirable mainly because it will be a splendid landmark in the progress of the American continent.

The sooner Canada becomes a part of the United States, the better off its people will be. The natural progress of this country points plainly to our destiny—One continent, one country, one flag.

At the present time the great plains of western Canada are very thinly inhabited. Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Assiniboia, all have millions of acres of rich and fertile land, which in the course of time will be densely populated. While this territory remains a part of the Dominion the progress of western Canada must be slow and laborious. Were it part of the United States its growth would be the marvel of the world. Lordly commonwealths, part of the great American Union, would rise and flourish. Magnificent cities would spring up, where now are nothing but isolated hamlets.

Every thoughtful and patriotic American hopes for a favorable verdict on reciprocity by the Canadian electorate.

ROLL OF HONOR STARTS AGAIN

Eastern Liberals Who Cannot Support Their Party in Its Present Policy Rapidly Increasing in Number

REMINDER OF DAYS OF 1891

Campaign of the Conservative Leaders Marked Everywhere by Success—Serious Dissensions Among Liberals

OTTAWA, Aug. 30.—"The Roll of Honor" has come again. The roll of honor appeared in 1891 and bore the names of Ontario Liberals who therein declared themselves opposed to the Liberal policy of continental free trade. Sir James Whitney, the premier of Ontario, speaking at Georgetown in Halton county, declares that the ever-growing list of Liberals now swelling the ranks of the Canadians who are fighting reciprocity constitutes a new roll of honor.

The Whitney campaign in Ontario, following that of the Dominion Conservative leader, is one of record-breaking crowds and enthusiasm.

Members of the Ontario government are waging an uninterrupted war on Laurierism in Ontario, while R. L. Borden is meeting with a great reception in Quebec, and thousands are turning out nightly to hear the anti-reciprocity arguments at meetings which Hon. George E. Foster and Hon. Clifford Sifton are holding individually in the Maritime provinces. Mr. Borden's open meeting in Montreal drew such an enormous crowd that an overflow meeting was found necessary. Mr. Sifton at St. John made a deep impression by pointing out that the efforts for increased rail traffic for the Canadian ocean ports would be rendered futile by reciprocity.

Free fights ended the meeting addressed by Sir Allen Aylesworth and Minister Fisher at Campbell's Bay, in Pontiac. The advent of the two ministers failed to clear the way for G. F. Hodgins, who is the Laurier candidate. H. S. Cahill, the second Liberal in the field, threw a trainload of supporters into the Campbell's Bay meeting, and a great row resulted at the close of the meeting. Both Liberals are still in the field. In Labelle, where Honore Achil, a strong candidate, has been nominated, the tide is running against the government. Major, the Liberal nominee and ex-member, was howled from the platform in Buckingham.

Sir Allen Aylesworth and Hugh Guthrie addressed a joint meeting with I. B. Lucas at Eganville in Renfrew today, the candidates of both sides in both Renfrews taking part.

The travelling partnership of Sir Allen Aylesworth and Mr. Guthrie is exciting much comment in view of the

GRAND TRUNK FINANCES

Dividends as Usual Declared for First Six Months of This Year—Receipts and Expenses Heavier

MONTREAL, Aug. 30.—The directors of the Grand Trunk Railway have declared a dividend at the full rate of 5 per cent. per annum on the first and second preference stocks in respect of the six months ending June 30, 1911, leavig £111,700 to be carried forward, or £900 less than the corresponding figure twelve months ago. The gross receipts for the period under review amounted to £561,200, an increase of £239,080. Working expenses were, however, heavy, the total of £2,628,200 now shown representing an increase of £172,200. Income derived from rentals, outside operations and other miscellaneous items amounted to altogether £22,400, a decline of £35,700, and after deducting net revenue charges, less credits, £511,000, as against £507,000 at this time last year, there remains a net revenue balance of £4[illegible],400 in respect of the Grand Trunk main line, the corresponding figure twelve months ago having been £416,700, an increase of £27,700. Of this improvement a considerable proportion is absorbed by the working of sf subsidiary lines which have been more pronounced during the past half year than usual.

HOW VIOLATION IS PERMITTED

Mr. G. H. Barnard and Hon. W. J. Bowser at Conservative Ward Rally, Deal With Disclosures on Alien Labor

Strong denunciations of the reprehensible act of the Dominion government in issuing secret instructions to its immigration officials to directly contravene the terms of the Alien Labor Act by allowing foreigners into Canada from the United States for the purpose of competing unfairly with local workingmen, was the keynote of two rousing addresses delivered by Mr. G. H. Barnard, the Conservative candidate here, and Hon. W. J. Bowser, Attorney General, at a largely attended meeting held at the Broad street hall last evening. Another feature was a thoughtful and logical speech from Mr. D. S. Tait, who is well known and popular among the young men of the city, on the effects of reciprocity on Canada as a whole and on British Columbia in particular.

Although it was but a ward rally, the large hall was practically filled when Mr. Guy Walker, the chairman, rose to introduce the first speaker, who was Mr. Barnard. The latter was received enthusiastically and his speech was notable for the ring of confidence which was so apparent that if there were any doubters present as to his success at the polls on September 21st they must have been inspired with optimism before he took his seat. He dealt largely with the recent exposures in the police court with regard to the infractions of the Alien Act being countenanced and abetted by the federal administration. Also he took up several of the assertions made by Hon. William Templeman, his opponent in this constituency, chiefly with respect to his refusal to accept as a manister of the Dominion government the responsibility for the disorganized state of the Esquimalt fortifications. In this, amid cheers, he proved that the minister was plainly attempting to side-step inasmuch as his own journal, the Victoria Times, under red ink head lines, had announced in May 1906, that the British government had withdrawn from this point and that thereafter the Canadian authorities were in full charge and control.

Mr. G. H. Barnard

In his introductory remarks, Mr. Barnard said that it was a pleasure to meet his friends of Ward Two. Although in the past two or three weeks he had had the pleasure of meeting many of the people of the city he had not before had the honor of coming face to face with the electors of that particular section. He was confident that under the guidance of his friend, Chairman Walker and his able committee, they would be led to see the issues of

WARM GREETING IN TOWNSHIPS

Mr. Borden Holds Successful Meetings in Bedford and Granby, Quebec—Welcomed by French Canadians

WELL SATISFIED WITH ONTARIO TOUR

Laurier Meeting in Halifax Breaks Out in Cheers at Mention of Name of Conservative Leader

BEDFORD, Que., Aug. 30.—Greeted at the station by Mayor N. A. Pare, who read and presented an address of welcome to the Conservative chieftain, and followed from the station to his hotel by a crowd of people who had been attending the county fair, Mr. R. L. Borden and his lieutenants today invaded this town to commence their tour of the Eastern Townships. The town was decked with Union Jacks and streamers, and a brass band headed the procession through the streets, playing a composition prepared by the local bandmaster entitled "Borden March." Mr. Borden replied in French to the mayor's address of welcome, and was well received by the crowd, the majority of whom were French Canadians. Mr. Borden in opening declared that his recent tour had shown him that Ontario and the west intended to maintain the British connection. He knew that Quebec would do likewise. After the meeting he left to speak at Granby.

Stand to Hear Leader

GRANBY, Que., Aug. 30—One thousand residents of this district stood in the town hall tonight for two hours and a half and listened to Mr. R. L. Borden and his lieutenants expounding their views on the reciprocity pact and other issues. Not a chair had been placed in the hall, so that there might be more room for hearers. Mr. Borden devoted practically all his time to the reciprocity issue, repeating the arguments used in previous speeches. Mr. Marechal spoke in French, and roundly denounced the administration. Mr. Ames discussed the economic effects of the pact.

Ministers at Halifax

HALIFAX, Aug. 30.—Halifax people turned out well tonight to hear Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. S. Fielding, and they filled the arena, which has a seating accommoaation of 7,000. Sir Wilfrid argued that the reciprocity policy of the government was simply that of the Conservatives under their leaders of some 25 years ago. Sir Wilfrid was proceeding with his speech when he happened to mention the name of Mr. Borden. This brought cheers from the audience, which were followed by loud cheers for Laurier and counter cheers for Borden.

Hon. W. S. Fielding followed. His voice was very hoarse, showing the strain that had been put upon it yesterday in his open air speech at Digby.

Toronto Nominations

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—Pearson was nominated tonight as Liberal candidate in East Toronto. This is the seat represented in the last house by Mr. Joseph Russell, the Independent Conservative. The Labor party also nominated James Richard. The election of the regular Conservative nominee, Mr. Kemp, is thus assured.

The movement of a Spanish force to Southern Morocco should it be confirmed, is expected to further complicate the Moroccan problem, over which negotiations are pending by Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, and Herr von Kiderlin-Waechter, the German foreign secretary.

HON. W. TEMPLEMAN IS CORRECTED

Esquimalt Defences were taken Over by Dominion Government When Imperial Troops Marched Out in 1906

In his speech at Esquimalt Hon. Wm. Templeman, when referring to Mr. Barnard's criticism of the government's neglect of the fortifications of Esquimalt, said, as reported by the Times:

"Among other things he tried to fasten some responsibility upon the Liberal government in regard to alleged neglect of the fortifications and big guns. The naval station at Esquimalt was only taken over by the Dominion government the day after the Rainbow arrived here and from that time to this the department of naval affairs at Ottawa has had control and retained an agent on the station."

In the Times of May 12, 1906 (over four years before the Rainbow arrived) a full page description of the taking over of the Esquimalt garrison by Canada and the marching out of the last Imperial garrison is published. The government of Canada took over the Esquimalt defences in May, 1906. The naval station at Esquimalt was formally taken over by Canada from the Imperial authorities on November 4th, 1910.

Mr. Templeman told the audience the government was not responsible for the neglect at Esquimalt, but he confined himself to the naval yard. He did not go into the criticisms made by Mr. Barnard of the manner in which the land defences had been neglected and weakened.

the present campaign in their true light and to do the proper thing when it came to casting ballots. (Applause).

At the start he wished to refer to the extraordinary and peculiar developments with regard to the contravention of the terms of the Alien Labor Act. Shortly before he had left for Ottawa to attend the session at which dissolution was declared, he had delivered an address at the A. O. U. W. hall, in the course of which he had touched upon the subject of the Alien Labor law. His statement then was to the effect that he had been informed that contracts were being made here for the importation of foreign workingmen from the south of the border, and that the Alien Labor Act which was designed to prevent this practice was being ignored. He also had said that he had seen some of these contracts and had promised that on his return to the capital he would do his best to have the matter investigated, and the interest of the working classes of the Canadian West protected. On the first opportunity in the legislature he had brought the matter to the attention of parliament, but had got no satisfaction. Hon. Mackenzie King had ridiculed the whole matter. Neither the Minister of the Interior, nor Hon. Mr. Templeman, had said anything. Under such circumstances his hearers might judge of his surprise on learning, as a result of the disclosures in the courts here, that the Alien Act was being violated with the consent and under the specific instructions of the federal authorities.

Disregarded Law.

Quoting from the letter of instructions, which was issued from Ottawa to the immigration officials, he emphasized its provisions and claimed that he was justified in the assumption that it applied to those having control of immigration all over Canada. Therefore the Dominion government was in the position of having given definite and unqualified instructions to its employees to disregard its own law and to allow into British Columbia foreign workmen from the United States that they might enter into competition with the Canadians of that class. And this had been done in face of the fact, as it had been brought out in evidence in court, that there were 700 men walking the streets in Vancouver looking for work and 300 in Victoria in the same plight. He was giving the round figures. There were more.

The Victoria Times had attempted to deal with the matter. He sympathized with that journal because he realized that it was badly "up against it." He then read the statement published in that paper attempting an explanation of the situation and a denial that there had been any illegal or unusual practice.

Mr. Barnard pointed out that there were two Dominion acts which, in the consideration of this question, might become confused. The one was that affecting immigration and the other was the alien act. The former, among its other provisions, provided that the foreign immigrant, in order to obtain access to Canada, must come direct from the country of his origin—if he be a Swede, he must come from Sweden; if a Norwegian, from Norway; if a German, from Germany and so forth—and that he must have in his possession $25 in cash. In the alien act it was clearly stipulated that no one should enter into contract for the bringing into Canada of foreign workmen for ordinary laboring purposes. The Times' argument was that the secret letter of instruction, which he had quoted, merely provided for the relaxation of the regulations on immigration, but did not affect the alien act. And yet the same letter of instruction distinctly said that the workingmen must have "assured employment" and "documentary evidence" of that, proving that such employment was in view. "How could he have these," Mr. Barnard asked, "unless he had signed a contract?" (Applause.) If he had them it was a direct violation of the alien act. In this the Dominion government had placed itself in the position of making its own officials contravene its own act and throw themselves open to prosecution and severe punishment.

Question for Mr. Templeman.

He wanted to know whether Hon. Mr. Templeman knew what was being done and if he didn't why he didn't. (Applause.) If he didn't know then he was of the opinion that the citizens of Victoria would be better off without that kind of a cabinet minister. When he (the speaker) had brought this matter before the house had the minister helped, had the Times offered any encouragement in the effort he was making to protect the workingmens' interests? No,—instead they had blackguarded him. The local Liberal organ had accused him of having some "mythical information of a highly elusive character." It didn't look now as though it was "mythical or elusive." (Laughter and applause.) It had accused him of either being ignorant or dishonest. Who was dishonest? A voice: The Times. It had characterized him as cowardly, as a calumniator, and called on him to prosecute. That hadn't worried him. He knew that there would be a prosecution, although he didn't know that it would result in such remarkable disclosures. It was shown that the government was prepared to commit a breach of its own laws, evidently at the request of the great railway corporation which it was backing, and to bring men into the country to compete unfairly with the sinew and the backbone of the Dominion.

Esquimalt's Defences

At a recent meeting Hon. Mr. Templeman, evidently in a sarcastic vein, had spoken of him as blossoming forth as an expert on big guns and things military. While he didn't put forward any such claim since being placed in public office he had made it his business to investigate the situation here with respect to the fortifications which, some years ago, had been a source of pride to Victorians owing to their efficiency. That was when the British authorities were in control at Esquimalt. Now the fortifications practically were dismantled and the conditions, to say the least, were exceedingly unsatisfactory. Even the uniforms were so scarce that when one recruit was signed on he had to be confined to barracks in overalls until the proper equipment could be found for him. (Laughter). Hon. Mr. Templeman had made no effort to defend the Dominion government but had made the assertion that it had been responsible only since the cruiser Rainbow had arrived, the inference being that it had had no time to do better. Quoting from the report of the minister's address he said that the statement there appearing was intended to lead the Esquimalt people to believe that the federal administration had had no control over the fortifications here between the time the British garrison left until the arrival of H. M. C. S. Rainbow. It either meant that or nothing. As a matter of fact he had it on the authority of the Victoria Times, Hon. Mr. Templeman's organ, that the Dominion government assumed full control of the Esquimalt fortifications on May 12th, 1906. In the issue of that day, on a front page plastered with red ink, that announcement had been made. (Applause). Therefore he wanted to know, and he thought that he was justified in asking, why the Work Point station has been allowed to deteriorate to its present miserable condition. (Applause).

Personally he did not want to hurt or to be discourteous to the Hno. Mr. Templeman.

As a matter of fact he liked Hon. Mr. Templeman. That, of course, was outside of politics. He was struggling but his struggles would cease on the evening of September 21st. (Laughter). However when he claimed that the Dominion government was responsible for the maintenance of the local fortifications for only a few months he was asserting what was not correct. The government, as he had shown, had been in control since 1906. Were Victorians going to allow themselves to be flimflammed in this way? He didn't think so. His opinion was that in making this assertion the minister had strengthened the position he, Mr. Barnard had taken all along.

Building of Warships

There was a great deal of talk about naval construction. It was asserted that he had stated that the government in calling for tenders for the building of ships had excluded the Pacific coast from competition. He had made no such statement. What he meant was that the authorities must have known that, as it was cheaper to do the work on the Atlantic coast, all the work would be done there in the ordinary course of events. And his contention was that it should have been stipulated that the ships which were to be used on the Pacific coast be constructed there. (Applause).

Contrasting the positions of Hon. Mr. Lemieux in the east with that assumed by Hon. Mr. Templeman in the west Mr. Barnard referred to the former's addresses in Montreal where he was offering all kinds of good things —magnificent yards for naval ships and so forth. They were providing sop for the voters in Quebec, all along the St. Lawrence river, at St. John, at Cape Breton and at Halifax. "But," Mr. Barnard queried, "does Hon. Mr. Templeman hand it out here?"

A voice: No.

"Mr. Templeman 'has hopes'," added Mr. Barnard. If his hopes of securing naval construction for the Pacific coast were as slim as his hopes of election on September 21st he didn't think there was much chance of their being realized. (Laughter and applause). But after all Victorians were going to be safe. They were going to have a fog horn at McLoughlin point. It was true. No less than a column was devoted to its description by the evening paper the other day. (Laughter). And it would be another useful thing for the Liberal camp was going to be smothered in such a fog on election night that it wouldn't be possible to see one's hand before one's face. (Loud applause).

Hon. W. J. Bowser

Hon. W. J. Bowser, provincial attorney general, was received most enthusiastically. He said that he was glad of the opportunity afforded him of saying a few words at this meeting and of taking an active part in what was probably the most important campaign since 1896 when Sir Wilfrid Laurier had won from the Conservatives at the polls. He referred to remarks made by Chairman Walker in introducing him that they had been acquainted and had had pleasant times on the lower mainland in 1903 when Premier McBride had made his first appeal to the British Columbia electorate. That Mr. Walker should speak so confidently of the return of Mr. Barnard in Victoria he esteemed as significant because he had, to his knowledge, proved himself something of a prophet in times past. At the date he spoke of, Mr. Walker had predicted that he would live to see Mr. John Oliver, who then represented the Delta, dead and buried politically. Everyone knew how true to the facts this had turned out. (laughter and applause).

He was pleased to note so much prosperity in Victoria. He was sorry that, before leaving for the Coronation, he had not invested in local real estate. His profits might have enabled him to pay some of his expense account. (laughter). Shortly after his arrival with Premier McBride at London, they had been present at a banquet given by the Pilgrim club and he wished to refer to it to introduce an incident which then had struck him as a significant illustration of the Imperialistic idea. Lord Roberts presided. At an adjacent table was Premier Botha, of South Africa. In Lord Roberts' opening speech, he had, in dealing with Imperialism, spoke of the great work which General Botha was carrying on in Africa and remarked that he had good reason to be acquainted with his ability in other lines. Mr. Bowser thought that it was an inspiring thing to find two old enemies expressing such sentiments. As a Canadian, and he said this altogether apart from party, he was not proud of the address delivered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. As the representative of the greatest and the richest colony much was expected of Sir Wilfrid. On his arrival he had found the feeling regarding reciprocity exceedingly deep, and in this, one of his first public utterances there, he had been called upon to explain and to excuse the policy of the Dominion. Instead of getting up and speaking of the greatness of the British Empire and of the proud part Canada was prepared to take in the upholding and the developing of that position he had spent fifteen or more minutes in the self-imposing task of proving that reciprocity did not mean annexation.

Carried Out Duty

Turning to local issues Mr. Bowser remarked that the Victoria Times, his old friend, was again turning its attention to him. He was responsible it appeared for this infraction of the Alien Act. Why the sins of the Dominion government should be loaded on his shoulders he knew not. (Laughter). In taking the steps necessary to institute the prosecution which had brought out the disclosures with which he presumed the majority were acquainted he was simply carrying out his sworn duties with respect to the administration of justice in the case of any infractions of the statutes. He did not claim any credit. The same thing would have happened no matter who was in charge of his department. Hon. W. G. Ross had assented to the prosecution of certain contracting companies. He supposed that the Liberals thought that because the provincial government was interested in the C. N. R. that it would not take any such step, but in a case of the administration of justice the provincial authorities knew no politics. The law had been set in motion with the result that the surprising and astounding disclosures to which Mr. Barnard had addressed himself had been made.

The Times, in a weak defence, had referred to the immigration act. It was not these regulations that were particularly in question. The action was being taken under the Alien Labor Act and the sections which it was claimed were directly violated read so clearly as to be intelligent to every citizen. He quoted them as follows:

"2. It shall be unlawful for any person, company, partnership or corporation, in any manner to prepay the transportation or in any way to assist, encourage or solicit the importation or immigration of any alien or foreigner into Canada, under contract or agreement, parole or special, express or implied, made previous to the importation or immigration of such alien or foreigner, to perform labor or service of any kind in Canada. —60-61 v., c. 11, s.1.

"3. For every violation of any of the provisions of the last preceding section, the person, partnership, company or corporation violating it by knowingly assisting, encouraging or soliciting the immigration or importation of any alien or foreigner into Canada to perform labor or service of any kind under contract or agreement, expressed or implied, parole or special, with such alien or foreigner, previous to such alien or foreigner becoming a resident in or a citizen of Canada, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, and not less than fifty dollars. —1 E. VII., c. 13, s.1.

Sets Aside Law.

It was plain from this that it was an offense to bring an alien laborer into Canada. But the Dominion government had arbitrarily set aside the law. It had asked its officials, who were paid by the taxpayers, to make these infractions of the regulations. He claimed that these men might be prosecuted and perhaps fined. Not only was it made possible for these immigration people to do this, but they were actually instructed to do so. Lists were prepared, submitted to the official at the Seattle steamer. Swedes and other foreigners despatched by the employment agency to which they paid $5.00, walked on the vessel, answered to their names and were passed along. The claim had been made that the Conservative government prior to 1896 was not all that it should have been. "Why" the speaker declared, "the Conservatives were children in the game of graft compared to the present Liberal government." (Applause). This latest disclosure, he contended, was equivalent to the government making criminals of its employees that it might please the Grand Trunk Pacific, its pet enterprise.

Not so very long ago President Hays, of the G. T. P., had come to the coast and had requested the Provincial government to relax that clause in its agreement which provided that only white laborers should be given employment in construction. But the request had been unequivocally refused. "We will not waive this clause of our contract with you. For certain land considerations in the neighborhood of Prince Rupert you have contracted to do certain things. We expect that the letter of the agreement shall be carried out." That had been the reply of the local authorities. With this it was evident that President Hays, knowing that there were many and devious paths of accomplishing a much desired object, had hastened back to Ottawa and the outcome of his activities evidently was the accomplishment of this secret setting aside of the Alien Labor act. The gates had been thrown down, navvies were pouring into British Columbia to enter into competition with "our own workingmen." Talk about reciprocity. This was reciprocity with a vengeance, but it was all on the one side. (Enthusiastic applause).

The Destroyed Document

In the police court during the hearing of the case in question, one of the immigration officers said that he didn't have a copy of the secret letter of instruction with which he had been supplied. He had destroyed it. Why had he done this? Because he was a politician in public office. For the sake of his party he did away with the document instead of placing it on file where it should have been. The whole matter was secret. There was no suggestion in Ottawa of gazetting it. There was nothing else to believe but that President Hays, turned down by British Columbia, had worked this method to gain his ends. And there was no one man, Mr. Bowser claimed, who had got more credit for this achievement than Mr. Barnard. (Applause).

PREMIER SPEAKS AT COAL CITY

Enthusiastic Meeting in Support of Mr. Shepherd's Candidature—Feeling in Nanaimo Against Reciprocity

NANAIMO, Aug. 30.—An enthusiastic audience gathered in the opera house to hear Mr. Frank H. Shepherd, the Conservative candidate for the Nanaimo district, and the Hon. Richard McBride, discuss the leading issues of the election. The building was thronged to the doors and both the candidate and the premier were given flattering receptions.

Mr. Shepherd dealt with the reciprocity pact from many standpoints. He claimed it would prejudicially affect the welfare of every class, and people of all ages throughout the Dominion. In addition the agreement threatened the national existence of Canada. He urged his hearers to remain true to the empire, not to enter into an entangling alliance which would imperil the Dominion's place in the empire, and to see to it that the resources of this great country were preserved for Canadians and people of the British race.

The Hon. Richard McBride made a stirring address, which was punctuated by frequent bursts of applause. He also took reciprocity as his theme, alluding to it as the entering wedge towards political union with the United States. He quoted the utterances of Mr. Champ Clark, claiming that they were made in all seriousness and were such as should command the attention of all loyal Canadians who wished their country to remain a part of the great British empire. His appeal to the loyalty of his hearers evoked enthusiasm.

Mr. W. H. Hayward, M. P. P. for the Cowichan district, also spoke, giving a masterly exposition of the probable effects of reciprocity on the infant industries of British Columbia.

The meeting was one of the most successful election rallies ever held here.

G. T. P. MAY PURCHASE PROVINCIAL RIGHTS

Reversionary Interest in Indian Reserve at Fort George May be Acquired by Railway Company

Referring to a rumor given newspaper publicity in the columns of one of the Vancouver dailies on Tuesday, both Premier McBride and Hon. W. R. Ross, Provincial minister of Lands, give an emphatic denial and contradiction to the statement that the Provincial reversionary interest in the Indian reserve at Fort George has been acquired by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company.

It is, however, not at all improbable that an arrangement may some time in the future be reached, whereby the railway company will acquire, by purchase, Provincial rights in the reserve—upon the consummation of a bargain with the Indians for their relinquishment of possession.

As the Province will become possessed of a quarter interest in any new city created at Fort George through railway activity, and now holds quarter interests in a number of townsites practically on all sides of the coveted reserve which would be greatly enhanced in value by the acquirement of the reserve by the railway company, it is obviously in the public interest that a bargain be made if possible that will expedite the establishment of the Grand Trunk Pacific's interior headquarters at the new northern Cariboo capital.

SHOWS COURAGE

Youthful Wireless Operator on Stranded Steamer Instrumental in Saving Passengers' Lives

CHARLESTON, S.C., Aug. 30.—To the courage of Wireless Operator Sheesley, a sixteen-year-old lad, the liner Lexington's 12 passengers and crew of 44, say they owe their lives.

Storm-wrecked for 24 hours, her nose driven deep in the quicksands of Huntington Island, with the sea dashing over her, the Lexington threatened to break up and fling her human cargo to death in the waters. It is said she will be a total loss.

Sheesley, the wireless operator, ticked out his call and kept the terror-stricken passengers from abandoning the ship when she struck. For a moment it seemed that all hope was lost, but Sheesley climbed into the rigging and fixed up a station. In imminent danger of his life from the high wind which threatened to tear him from his seat, and blinded by spray, Sheesley sent out his plea for aid.

Suddenly through the storm his call was answered by the revenue cutter Yammacraw, which had heard his call and came on to save the lives of the Lexington's crew and passengers.

The twelve passengers, a steward and the negro employees on the Lexington were brought here. The entire crew of 44 men were left on board. Two firemen were reported to have burned to death and a third terribly scalded when the vessel grounded. First Officer Chamberlain fractured his right shoulder.

When the captain realized the danger of the liner breaking up any minute, he had life preservers strapped on every passenger.

The Lexington went hard ashore on Huntington Island. She is lying in about 18 feet of water, listed almost 40 degrees to port, with her bow pointing up the coast. Captain Connelly, a veteran in the service of the Merchants & Miners Line, declares that the hurricane was the worst of his experience at sea.

He says, and his statement is attested by the first mate and steward, that the wind came in gusts at times making about 130 miles an hour. The roar of the sea was terrific. All of the passengers were huddled in the social hall equipped with life preservers and not a few fervent prayers were offered that they might see the shore again.

When urged yesterday by the officers of the Yammacraw to abandon his boat, Captain Connelly declared he would remain on her until only a mast was left to cling to.

ROLL OF HONOR STARTS AGAIN

fact that Mr. Guthrie is looking for Sir Allen's shoes, and Sir Allen has recommended A. H. Clarke of South Essex as his successor. Mr. Guthrie is being used in Ontario as a prospective minister, while it is said the portfolio is actually to go to another man.

Bids for Support.

Desperate efforts are being made by the government to influence the votes of the government employees. Following an increase of pay for the men in the printing bureau, comes the announcement of the long-sought increase for canal tenders all over Canada.

In Russell county troubles are accumulating for the secretary of state, J. U. Vincent, the Conservative candidate, has invited Hon. Mr. Murphy to a joint meeting in a letter which is significant as outlining the method by which Sir Wilfrid is alleged to have smoothed the way for the minister in Russell. Mr. Vincent says:

"It has been stated that you have made under your signature certain statements concerning your signature to certain petitions regarding the Ottawa University, and promises with regard to bi-lingual schools; also that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had made over his signature certain promises to a number of your supporters when they refused to figure in your campaign.

"I hereby challenge you to produce at these meetings the documents above referred to."

The last of the voters' lists are now going out from the office of the clerk of the crown in chancery.

Anarchy in Northern France.

PARIS, Aug. 29.—Processions of women, numbering 2,000, are marching this evening in Northern France, protesting against the high prices of provisions. At Lille, Cambria, Douai, Valenciennes, Bethune, Lens, and at many smaller places a species of anarchy prevails because the police cannot protect the dealers. The processions in some of the northern departments are marching from village to village running over farms and damaging dairies and vegetable gardens to indicate their sense of grievance. As each village is descended on, the ranks of the manifestants are steadily augmented and occasional incidents are reported of conflicts between the mauraders and farmers armed with pitchforks.

THOSE CONTRACT LABORERS

The only defences which the local Liberal paper can make to the overwhelming disclosure made in the proceedings in the police court is to say first that the Colonist has exposed itself to odium by commenting upon a case before the court. To this observation we reply: Rubbish!

But we do not desire to be misunderstood. The Colonist is and always has been prepared to accede to the courts of the land every respect that is their due, and one of the things that is due them is to withhold expressions of opinion on subjects, which are before the courts for decision. But, and we desire all and sundry to take notice of what we say, if it seems to the Colonist that any question, which may be involved in a suit or prosecution, is one which in the public interest ought to be discussed, it will be discussed in these columns fully and freely and those who discuss it will be prepared to take the consequences. We know our rights as citizens of a free country and have no fear of what may happen if we exercise them.

Adverting to the particular case before the Police Court, we expressly said that we would not express any opinion upon the question, which the Police Magistrate had to decide, but only upon the policy of the government in issuing the instructions to its immigration officers and with this the Police Magistrate has nothing to do.

Our contemporary professes to quote the letter of instructions sent out to the immigration officers, but dishonestly abstains from giving the most important part of it. We point out on the first page what it omitted from the letter, but the omission was of such a vital part that we make reference to it here. By virtue of these instructions persons, who may wish to take advantage of them, are required to present to the officers "documentary or other sufficient evidence of definite employment to go to." If documentary evidence of definite employment is not a contract, within the spirit of the Alien Labor act, nothing can be. Whether or not the Police Magistrate shall or shall not decide that the papers produced in court constitute such a contract as renders any one liable to penalties is wholly beside the case. This is important so far as the defendants in the suit are concerned, but it is unimportant so far as the government is concerned before the bar of public opinion.

We are not alleging that any contractors made an illegal contract with any one. That is purely and simply a question for the court. What we allege is that, by the instructions issued to its officers, the Dominion government authorities authorized the entrance into Canada of persons "going to assured permanent employment" and having "documentary or other sufficient evidence of definite employment." We are ready to assume that it may be possible for legal counsel to so frame a document that will be "sufficient evidence of permanent employment" and yet will keep the person signing it outside the penalties of the Alien Labor act; but we also say that any agreement for definite employment expressed in a document is a violation of the intention of the Alien Labor act. The local Liberal paper may be suppressing the evidence given in the case and by garbling the instructions issued to the immigration officers make out what looks like a case for itself, but it is foolish if it supposes that it can deceive the electors of Victoria. They will not be content with a half statement of the facts. They will ask the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and when they learn what is the deception attempted by our contemporary will react upon its candidate.

MR. TEMPLEMAN EXPLAINS

Mr. Templeman took occasion at Esquimalt to give what he had intended as an explanation of the delay on the part of the Dominion government in making the defences what they ought to be. We are at a loss to know just what to say in reply, because we do not like to suggest that a Minister of the Crown would state what he knows to be untrue or that he does not know what he is talking about. The best thing under the circumstances is to state the facts and then give Mr. Templeman an opportunity to explain what he wishes the public to accept, or, if he does not take advantage of this, to permit the public to form their own conclusions.

The criticism advanced in the columns of this paper on several occasions, and more recently by Mr. Barnard, is that the defences at Esquimalt, including therein the strength of the Work Point garrison, are not up to the standard maintained by the Imperial forces, but on the contrary have been allowed to deteriorate.

Mr. Templeman's answer is that the Dominion government has only been in charge at Esquimalt since the Rainbow came, that is for a few months. This explanation is about as satisfactory as the statement that Germany only seized Agidir about a month ago could have been. That is to say it is an explanation that does not explain anything.

It is quite true that the Dominion only took over the Navy Yard a few months ago; but the Navy Yard and the fortifications and the men garrisoning them have no relation to each other. We are quite prepared to concede that since the Navy Yard was taken over there has been no occasion for improving it, or even for putting it in active commission. But it was as long ago as 1906 that the Dominion government took over the Work Point garrison and the defences of Esquimalt. Under these circumstances it seems to be in order to ask Mr. Templeman to answer a few questions, which we subjoin.

Were you ignorant of the fact that the Dominion government took over the charge of the garrison and the defences five years ago?

Do you really wish people to understand that it was not until a few months ago that the Militia Department of Canada had control of the defences here, and that you actually were of the opinion that Mr. George Phillips, the civil officer in charge of the Navy Yard, was in charge of the Work Point garrison and the defences of Esquimalt?

If you did not believe such preposterous nonsence, how came it that you gave the explanation which you advanced at Esquimalt on Tuesday night?

We shall defer further comments until Mr. Templeman has had an opportunity to say on a public platform or through his newspaper what his answer to these questions are.

HON. W. J. BOWSER

The Hon. W. J. Bowser has returned to his work much improved in health after a holiday which he richly earned. The attorney-general is never happier than when working. His is one of those dynamic natures, of ceaseless activity, constantly on the alert, waiting for problems and as they arise coping with them in a thorough fashion. Anyone who has watched his political career must be aware of his whole-hearted desire to benefit in every way the province which has given him one of the most important positions in its gift. Since he took up his portfolio he has been responsible for much useful legislation, all of which has had for its end the protection of the public at large. In him British Columbia possesses a cabinet minister of the first rank. With each succeeding day he is gaining in popularity, and although Vancouver is his home city he is liked every whit as much in Victoria where, through the fact of the seat of government being here, he is brought so directly in touch with the citizens. Victorians have always found him ready to listen with sympathy to all their requests and where possible grant them. During Mr. Bowser's absence an immense quantity of departmental business has necessarily accumulated for his consideration. It is a fit compliment to his energies to say that during the next few weeks he will be one of the happiest men in British Columbia—because he will have so much to occupy his mind.

THE STANDARD OF LABOR.

What is the explanation of the instructions given the immigration officers in regard to the admission of contract labor navvies? The matter is so very serious that we shall endeavor to answer this question without any appeal to prejudice or partisanship. The maintenance of a high standard among the unskilled workmen of Canada is of prime importance. It is from the ranks of the unskilled workmen that all other classes of the community must of necessity be recruited, and hence anything tending to lower the standard of unskilled labor injures the community at its very foundation.

It is generally known that the Grand Trunk Pacific has been eagerly desirous of getting cheap labor to use in building its railways. Mr. C. M. Hays, the president, has never concealed this. He has been frank and open about it. He has appealed to the provincial government to assent to the introduction of Orientals to work on the road. We are not going to criticise Mr. Hays. As the president of the railway he naturally would like to build the road as quickly and as cheaply as he can, and as a resident of Montreal he would not greatly disturb himself as to what became of the men in British Columbia after the line was built. We do not know that Mr. Hays, failing to secure the assent of the Provincial government to the employment of aliens, went to the Dominion government for relief and secured the instructions to the immigration officers to admit contract laborers, but if he did not some one else did, and who it was is immaterial.

At any rate the order was made What was the effect of the order? The standard of unskilled labor in British Columbia has always been high. Doubtless there have been and are exceptions, but as a general proposition the unskilled laborer in the province lives cleanly and decently, and he will not work, if he can avoid it, under conditions that are not as clean and decent as the nature of his employment will permit. He not only wants decent wages, but he wants sanitary quarters and wholesome food. There is, however, in the United States, a class of unskilled workmen, with whom wages are the prime consideration. They are content to live under any sort of conditions and eat almost any kind of food. Certain railway contractors prefer this class of men, but they could not get them because they do not live in Canada and they rarely have enough money to qualify them to enter the country as immigrants under the law and the regulations. It was to permit the entry of such men into the country that the instructions referred to were issued, and under these regulations a large number of men have already come into the country. It may be mentioned in passing that several Swedes, who came in under these instructions were refused employment by the contractors to whom they were consigned, and the explanation of such refusal probably is that, being Swedes and therefore likely to demand proper conditions under which they had to work, they were not wanted.

Now what must be the inevitable effect of such a line of action? Is it not as clear as the noonday sun that it means the introduction into British Columbia—we speak of this province only because we do not know if similar instructions were given to immigration officers in the other provinces—of a type of unskilled workingmen from which we have hitherto happily been almost free? Meanwhile hundreds of our own men are willing to do the very work that these imported laborers are doing, but they are not permitted to do it because they will not put up with the low standard of living which the imported navvies are content with.

We do not think that in what has been said above we have overstated the case in the slightest particular. We have, indeed, been careful to keep well within what the facts, as stated to us on the best authority, fully justify. Whether the Minister in charge of immigration knew the facts and chose to ignore them, or whether he was igorant of the effect of his instructions we do not know and have no means of ascertaining, but we do know that through ignorance or wilfulness a blow has been struck by the Dominion government at the standard of unskilled labor in this province.

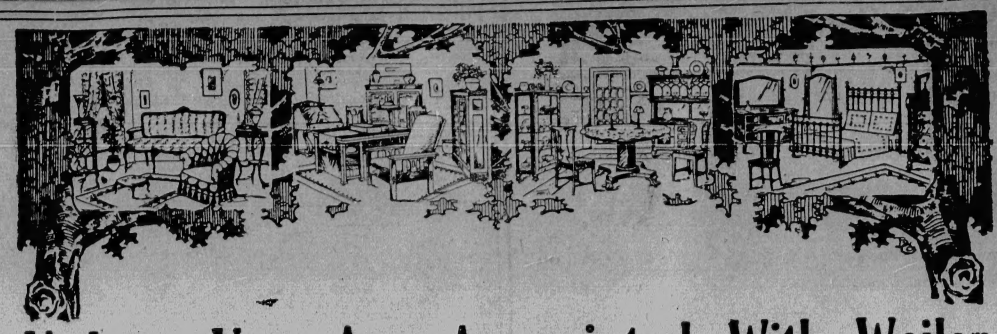

TO MR. TEMPLEMAN.

The insinuation in Mr. Templeman's paper that Mr. McBride has personally profitted by the land and timber policy of the provincial government is infamous. We direct Mr. Templeman's attention to it. We should be sorry to hold him personally responsible for everything that appears in that paper, but now that his attention is hereby specifically drawn to the insinuation referred to, we put it to him, as to a man who expects to be treated as a gentleman, that it is his duty immediately to cause his paper to withdraw the remark to which we refer.

It is an infamous thing that a man in public life may be made subject to such base and cowardly insinuations. If the Colonist, referring to the fact that Mr. Templeman is apparently in a very prosperous condition, should have the indecency to insinuate that he owes that prosperity to misuse of his office, he would very properly feel that he had been foully dealt with. Wherein would such an insinuation differ from that which his paper has seen fit to make against Mr. McBride? We hope for the sake of decency that Mr. Templeman will at once direct his paper to make prompt reparation.

The parrot cry that reciprocity will reduce the cost of living is kept up. We have asked those who say it will to prove their case. The voters have a right to ask for proof. If it is not forthcoming they have a right to conclude that it does not exist. The reason why proof is not attempted is because the changes in the tariff are such that under no circumstances will they prove to advantage of the consumers.

It is not for the Colonist to say how any contemporary shall conduct its news columns, but the omission from its reports of Mr. Barnard's speech at the Victoria Theatre of any reference to that gentleman's claim that any residue of the sum received from the United States, Japan and Russia under the sealing treaty, after the sealers have been compensated, should be devoted to the establishment of a shipbuilding plant at Esquimalt is noteworthy, for it signifies that our local Liberal contemporary has no wish that this suggestion shall reach its readers. We can understand that this may be the case. We can understand that neither Mr. Templeman nor Mr. Ralph Smith would undertake to express themselves in sympathy with a policy which they doubtless know is quite opposed to the policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

PRESS COMMENTS

Historic Repetition

The Minister of Public Works has been at Ottawa looking over the tenders for dock construction and harbor works at St. John. It is expected that he will soon make announcement as to the successful tender, and the dates when the work will begin and end. These announcements will not come upon the public of St. John with the shock of a great surprise. Two years and ten months ago Mr. Pugsley was a candidate in St. John. He had called for tenders for dredging and other work at that port. A few weeks before polling the tenders were in. A few days before polling Mr. Pugsley gave the name of the successful firm and declared that the contract would be signed and work begin almost immediately. In a prophetic outburst he assured an audience that before two years (from October, 1908), ships of 10,000 tons would be sailing into the inlet, which he was about to dredge, mooring to wharves which he was about to build, and exchanging freight with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, which would then be completed and extended to St. John. The time is more than up, but not a foot of dredging has been done, nor a pile driven. If the contract was made nothing was done on it, and the agreement which Mr. Pugsley is now professing to make is for the same dredging and for docks in the same place. One question now to be decided in St. John is whether two elections can be run on the same promise.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

Strangling the Alien Labor Act

It is not necessary to ask that the report of the Alien Labor Act prosecution at Victoria shall be read and considered carefully. The facts brought to light cannot fail to arrest the attention of all, though they are of particular interest to workingmen. It is clearly revealed that the Alien Labor Act, placed on the statute book for the protection of Canadian labor, has been year after year set aside by orders-in-council from Ottawa, so that laborers may be brought in by hundreds without regard to the qualifications and requirements of that statute.

This year and last year the restrictions and safeguards were thus swept away. Laborers have been imported into British Columbia by hundreds from the United States. It is only when information is laid before the provincial government and the attorney-general's department, in the line of duty, institutes proceedings, that the double part which the Dominion government has played comes to light. Then it is revealed that the foreign laborers are admitted without conditions by official instructions from Ottawa.

This was done quietly. It was not communicated to parliament, though the order was given two years in succession. In fact, there was careful concealment, for when Mr. Barnard brought up in the House this question of the admission of aliens the minister who was doing it did not even then tell what was going on. It is also a curious circumstance that the original instruction sent to the British Columbia officer has been destroyed. Until the facts could no longer be concealed the provincial authorities, who have taken action, were not permitted to know that the offence was committed by Dominion authority.

The reason given by the Dominion government for abrogating the law behind closed doors is the shortage of labor. This was the reason offered shortly before why the provincial government should relax the rule against the employment of Asiatics on the Grand Trunk Pacific. It did not work with the provincial ministers. The evidence which we print shows that it was not necessary to set aside this law in order to obtain labor, though the cancellation of the act may have made it possible to get labor cheaper.

The Alien Labor Law serves no purpose if it is set aside whenever contractors are looking for men. When one wants to hire men the act is quite unnecessary. The only time that it serves any purpose is when it stands in the way of the importation of aliens, and that is when contractors want them. Better wipe out the law honestly and openly than set it aside by order-in-council whenever it stands in anybody's way.

The evidence says that when the act was privately abrogated to let in hundreds of men one thousand laborers were without work in the neighborhood of Vancouver and Victoria. Yet of those admitted in violation of the statute many were not engaged on their arrival and were left to swell the ranks of the unemployed. Doubtless some of the unemployed are not looking for hard work, but it is undoubtedly true that the alien law is needed on this Coast this year as much as it is required in Canada at any time. The suspension of the act season after season under the prevailing conditions only means that the government does not intend it to be enforced or to serve any serious purpose. It is only to be in force when it can accomplish nothing and to disappear when it can serve the purpose for which it was enacted.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

Farm and Market

We recommend the Conservatives of the agricultural, fruit-growing, cattle ranching and poultry raising districts of this Province to circulate among their neighbors the special reciprocity article in the Vancouver World of yesterday, dealing with Seattle and Vancouver prices of farm products. The World has sent a special correspondent to Seattle, and publishes a comparative price list of mutton, lamb, poultry, eggs, cabbages, celery, green peas and beans, cucumbers, cauliflowers, beets, carrots and other roots, apples, plums, peaches and other fruits and berries.

Some Vancouver prices quoted are fifty per cent higher than those of Seattle. Sometimes the difference is greater, as in the case of "carrots, beets, turnips, radishes, in Seattle "4 to 6 bunches for 5 cents," in Vancouver "5 cents a bunch, 3 for 10 cents." Here the Vancouver price is 300 per cent higher, which is an odd result of a 20 per cent duty.

Another singular discovery of Mr. Norris is the fact that lemons in Seattle cost 20 cents, with 25 cents for the special article, while the Vancouver price is 30 cents; and that oranges in Seattle are 20 to 40 cents, while in Vancouver they are 20 to 60 cents. The Vancouver price is thus fifty per cent higher. Of course, the World did not know that we already have reciprocity in oranges and lemons, which are free by the present tariff. If oranges, being free, cost fifty per cent more in Vancouver than in Seattle, how can we be sure that other fruits, as well as vegetables, meats, dairy products and eggs, will not also be fifty per cent dearer under free trade?

But though the World thus condemns its own comparative tables for the purpose intended, there is no doubt that prices of certain fruits, vegetables and meats would come into this Province from the United States in larger quantities under reciprocity. It is unquestionably true that the United States would successfully invade and largely destroy the market which British Columbia farmers and orchardists have established and now enjoy in their own Province and on the prairies.

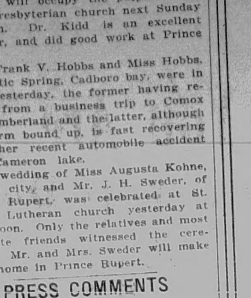

The dealers who tell the World that Vancouver offers a fine market are right, though we would not quite agree with the one who says that "Seattle has one of the greatest agricultural districts of the world behind it, and Vancouver has not." Vancouver has also good, though less developed, country behind it. Vancouver citizens are bound in their own interest to do all they can to develop their own country rather than to send their money to the country behind Seattle.

The argument of the World is the same as that made by the Government candidates in Nanaimo, Comox-Atlin and Victoria, that the reciprocity treaty is good because it will enable the British Columbia cities to buy more freely of the produce of the United States' farms, orchards and ranches, instead of buying from our own producers at prices which, for the present may be a little higher. The Conservatives are prepared to meet the Government on that issue, not only in the farming districts of the Province, but right here in this greatest consuming centre of Western Canada. They accept the tariff on fruits and vegetables, live stock, poultry and eggs as no less just than the tariff on clothing or hardware, on which Mr. Fielding refused reciprocity. Let it be understood that Vancouver is not an outpost of Seattle, and has no interest in building up the country behind that city. This is a Canadian and a British Columbian port, and its future depends upon the progress and prosperity of the country behind it. The interest of the British Columbia coast is bound up with that of the interior valleys and the far flung prairies still farther away.

"If the fruit and vegetable growers and stock raisers of British Columbia are to be hounded out of the markets of their own Province and by exactly the same arguments out of the prairies, where will they sell their products? Are the people of Vancouver, Victoria and other coast cities going to help Mr. Templeman put out of business the men on the land behind them? The answer will be given soon, and it will be found that city and country, coast and sw[illegible]p, intend to stand together and prosper together.—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

Mr. Painter has had the model mounted and framed, and will have it on exhibition at the Victoria Fair next week. He had sent a very hard piece of the Nanaimo coal to a firm in Pennsylvnia and it had sent back this most difficult and finely worked piece of carving. Every part relative to a large colliery is carved out of the piece of coal, and even the cars and the miniature tracks are distinctly shown.

Will Re-submit Bylaws—The petitions which must be signed by one-fifteenth of the number of ratepayers before the two bylaws defeated in the recent vote—the parks bylaw and that to provide for the raising of the annual amount to be spent for library maintenance—can be again placed before the ratepayers, are now being signed. Copies of the petitions can be had at the office of the building inspector and other copies will be this week circulated. Before the measures can again be submitted the petitions must be signed by about 500 ratepayers. In order that there should be no delay a special man will be employed by the city to secure the necessary signatures. It is expected that the measures will again come before the electors some time towards the end of next month.

Drug Caused Death—That death was due to some drug or drugs, the nature of which was not shown, was the verdict returned yesterday afternoon by the coroner's jury which investigated the circumstances surrounding the death of the Hindu, Inda, who died on Tuesday morning at the Royal Jubilee hospital from what was believed to be opium poisoning. Dr. Bapty gave evidence to the effect that the Hindu, when he saw him at the police station, was in a stupor apparently occasioned by some drug. The physical signs all pointed to poisoning and while an antidote was administered it failed to relieve the victim. At the hospital Dr. Bapty's orders were carried out but without effect. Death was undoubtedly due to opium poisoning. The body of the dead man was identified by another Hindu who stated that the deceased, owing to ill health, had lost his job at the Tod Island cement works on Saturday last. The jury was composed of Mr. Guy Walker, foreman; and Messrs. Robert Eccles, Stanley Johnson, R. S. Irwin, Frank Regan and S. Fleming.

CANADA TO ENGLAND.

Sang one of England in his island home;
"Her veins are million, but her heart is one";
And looked from out his wave-bound homeland isle
To us who dwell beyond the eastern sun.

And we among the Northland plains and lakes,
We youthful dwellers in a younger land
Turn eastward to the wild Atlantic waste,
And feel the clasp of England's outstretched hand.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Starts Fire Without Permit.—On Friday at Duncan a man named Welsmiller was convicted of starting a fire without a clearing permit and was fined $50 and costs. Welsmiller was found by the fire warden with the fire brand in his hand.

Remanded Until Today—Patrick McKenna was charged in the police court yesterday with assaulting George J. McKay. He pleaded not guilty to the charge and was remanded until this morning.

Church Choir Rehearsals—After their regular summer holidays during July and August the members of First Presbyterian church choir will resume practice next Friday evening. Preparations for their annual Halloween concert will be commenced at once as well as other work in addition to the regular church work.

Visiting Journalists—The reception committee of the Board of Trade met yesterday afternoon and made further arrangements for the entertainment of the members of the British Press association to Canada due here early next month. The arrangements will be completed at another meeting, a wire having been received from Mr. W. D. Scott, superintendent of immigration at Ottawa approving of the arrangements proposed here.

Fined for Bad Language—In the Spanish municipal court, before Magistrate Jay, yesterday morning a man by the name of Goulding was found guilty of causing a disturbance and using foul language towards a man and his wife, and was fined $10. The quarrel arose because of certain pigs which the accused had in his possession and which he claims the other man wanted removed. In discussing the affair the accused had used very foul language, and admitted that he was under the influence of liquor at the time.

Cruelty to Animals—At the instigation of Inspector Russell, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, James Campbell, a teamster, was found guilty of beating his team, on Blanchard street, in the police court yesterday, and was fined the sum of $15. Eye witnesses of the affair said that the wagon had become sunk in a rut in the road, and was unable to move the heavy load, whereon the accused proceeded to administer the beating to his team in an endeavor to make them draw the wagon from its sunken position. His efforts failed, however, and he was finally forced to use a pick, whereby he was enabled to loosen the earth about the wheel, thus giving the horses a proper chance to haul the heavy load, which they did. The accused pleaded not guilty to the charge, saying that the horses were lazy and would not pull and that he had just struck them a few times to renew their energy. The magistrate, however, was satisfied that he had acted in a cruel and uncalled for manner towards his team.

RESUSCITATION

Dr. H. J. Wasson Delivers Instructive Lecture to Audience at Y.M.C.A. Building.

To an audience that completely filled the lecture room of the new Y.M.C.A. building Monday night, Dr. H. J. Wasson delivered a most interesting talk to the members of the Swimming club on the "Physiology of Resuscitation." At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks was tendered Dr. Wasson, for the instructive information.

In commencing his talk, Dr. Wasson had a young man step to the platform and upon him he traced out the lines of the heart, lungs and liver, of each of which he had a sample, which he used as illustrations. He explained the circulation of the blood, from the body through the right side of the heart, to the lungs, where it is aerated and purified from carbon dioxide. After undergoing this process the blood goes back to the left side of the heart and thence is circulated throughout the body in the pure form.

The lecturer remarked that the value of artificial respiration is not so much in getting the lungs into operation, as in renewing the circulation of the blood. He discussed resuscitation in general and compared its three methods ,namely the Hall, Sylvester, and Schafer, or Prone methods. The last mentioned is superior to the others, inasmuch as it allows the tongue to keep out of the throat, and does not injure the lives of the other organs when ingorged with blood. The application of heat is just as essential in resuscitation, as artificial respiration, because of the fact that after any accident the body becomes cold, and the person frequently dies from the lack of heat.

In closing his lecture, Dr. Wasson advised his young hearers that should they ever have occasion to attend a drowning person and it was in warm weather, to commence artificial resuscitation on the body at once, followed within less than five minutes time with application of heat and vigorous rubbing.

MADAME GRISELDA

Talented Vocalist to Give a Concert in Alexandra Club

Lovers of music are looking forward with much interest to the concert to be given by Madame Griselda, the well-known dramatic soprano, on Friday evening, Sept. 8, in the Alexandra club.

The programme now being prepared, promises to be a most enjoyable one. Mr. E. H. Russel will act as accompanist, and Mr. Edmunds, the well-known local baritone, will also assist, his numbers including the famous "Prologue" from "Il Pagliacci" and the Toreador Song, from "Carmen."

Madame Griselda's beautiful voice has been heard in many different parts of the world. In the far-away India she met with great success. Writing of her, The Englishman, of Calcutta, says: "Added to the art which has taught her to best use her great gift, she posesses the power which no teacher can give her—the power of sympathy. The quality and strength of her high notes was beyond all criticism."

And a critic nearer home, to wit, Mr. George J. Dyke, of Vancouver, says: "She has a rapturous voice of extraordinary register of uncommon quality and beautiful mellowness. Her phrasing is absolutely faultless, and to hear her sing is a never-to-be-forgotten lesson. Her enunciation is perfect. She is as much at home in German, French and Italian as she is in English."

The concert will be given under the following patronage: His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Paterson, Hon. Premier and Mrs. McBride, Hon. C. E. and Mrs. Pooley, Hon. James and Mrs. Dunsmuir, Senator and Mrs. Macdonald, Chief Justice and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. Matson, Mr. and Mrs. Galletly, Mr. and Mrs. Flumerfelt, Mr. and Mrs. Holland and Mr. and Mrs. Kirkbride.

OBITUARY NOTICES

Richdale—There was a very large attendance at the funeral of the late Mrs. Lucy Richdale, which took place from the Hanna chapel yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Services were conducted by the Rev. F. H. Fatt. Interment was made in Ross Bay cemetery. There were many very beautiful floral tributes, among them a large wreath from the bookbinding department of the provincial printing office. The pallbearers were Messrs. Alfred Huxtable, W. G. Barlow, W. Edwards and J. Willey.

Baxter—The funeral of the late Mr. Andrew Leitch Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Baxter, took place at the family residence, 1133 Yates street, at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. There were many beautiful floral tributes. Staff Corp. Hayes, assisted by Captain Knudson of the Salvation Army, officiated. The pallbearers were Messrs. J. Unternaker, R. C. Eccles, A. F. McMillan and A. C. Arnold.

Inda—The remains of the late Hindu, Inda, are reposing at the Hanna chapel until this afternoon, when they will be taken to Esquimalt to be cremated according to the Hindu rites.

the Alaska boundary line matter was decided. In every contest of this kind it was found that Canada had come off second best. This is what he feared in reciprocity. It was a leap in the dark. Was it wise to make a change from prosperity to a condition of which nothing was known? Hon. Mr. Fielding, not in the best of health, and Mr. Patterson, a man neighboring on eighty years of age, had negotiated this pact with President Taft and Secretary of State Knox, two of the most astute minds of the United States. Most Canadians, he believed, thought the result of their conference was one-sided. The Yankees thought they were getting the better of it. He had never yet met an American who wasn't in favor of reciprocity. They were convinced that they had the best end of the stick. When he saw a Yankee approaching and telling what was going to be good for Canada he fought shy of that Yankee and his proposition. (Laughter and applause.) In conversation with one of his friends from the other side the latter had asserted that reciprocity was a good thing for Canada "because we will develop your resources." "Where do you propose doing this?" asked Mr. Bowser. "Oh, in our big cities—Pittsburg, Chicago, and so forth." (Laughter.) While he didn't think that it would have been a good thing for the States years ago had her resources been exploited at Birmingham, Leeds, or other Old Country manufacturing centres still he believed that reciprocity was a splendid idea for Canada. (Applause.)

A Candid Opinion

While, with regard to annexation, Hon. Mr. Bowser had too much confidence in the Anglo-Saxon blood of the Canadian to fear any such thing yet he was convinced that on the other side they thought that the proposal would be the first move in that direction. It was only necessary to read the American newspapers to see that. He quoted from the Chicago Democrat:

"Most of our contemporaries in the press are publishing editorials in which it is repeated again and again that a political union of Canada and the United States is not the ulterior object of reciprocity. These editorials are written no doubt for Canadian consumption, but we do not believe the thinking portion of the Canadian public can have such a deep-rooted objection to the annexation of Canada to the United States, an object the accomplishment of which must be the governing motive of this country in its attitude toward its northern neighbor.

"We see no reason for the hypocrisy and dissimulation which form the keynote of the expressed opinions of many of our newspapers on the reciprocity issue. Reciprocity is desirable mainly because it will be a splendid landmark in the progress of the American continent.

"The sooner Canada becomes a part of the United States the better off its people will be. The natural progress of this country points plainly to our destiny—one continent, one country, one flag.

"At the present time the great plains of western Canada are very thinly inhabited, Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Assiniboia, all have millions of acres of rich and fertile land which in the course of time will be densely populated. While this territory remains a part of the Dominion the progress of western Canada must be slow and laborious. Were it part of the United States its growth woul dbe the marvel of the world. Lordly commonwealths, part of the great American Union, would rise and flourish. Magnificent cities would spring up, where now are nothing but isolated hamlets.

"Every thoughtful and patriotic American hopes for a favorable verdict on reciprocity by the Canadian electorate."

This explained itself. Annexation was the whole motive in the United States.

Referring to the prospects throughout Canada, Hon. Mr. Bowser said that everywhere the indications were that the Conservatives would be returned by a large majority. In Quebec Sir Wilfrid Laurier no longer was the popular idol. Usually he did not find it necessary to go into the home of his countrymen until later in the campaign. This time he had felt called upon to make an early visit. He had started with his sunny smile and had come out traducing Bourassa and referring to his grey hairs. Never before had he felt impelled to descend to this and it was the harbinger of his overthrow. The situation looked equally favorable throughout the east, in the west, and of course in British Columbia he felt confident that seven Conservatives would be returned to the support of the new government (enthusiastic applause).

Danger of Annexation.

Mr. D. S. Tait, in an able address, dealt with the statement that the tendency of reciprocity was towards annexation. When the assertion had been made in speeches delivered by Premier McBride and Mr. Barnard early in the campaign he had been led to think and, going into the matter thoroughly, had come to the conclusion that there was a real danger of such an outcome. All the indications were that Sir Wilfrid Laurier who had had his ear close to the rumblings and the grumblings from Quebec, had developed as his ideal Canadian independence. It might be called "independence" or "annexation" for when Canada stood out from the protecting influence of the British empire it would be impossible for her to withstand the United States. What was there to prevent the republic to the south from annexing Canada? If it came to an issue what was there to hold the Americans at bay? Canada would be absolutely helpless. There was no navy and the regular forces were barely suffcient to keep the barracks in order. It was a known fact that officers had hired men, during a recent camp drill period, in order to bring the force up to a presentable strength. It was something elementary when it was said that Canada would find it impossible to stand against the United States. He referred to Joseph Chamberlain's policy, promulgated shortly after the Boer war, for the binding of the empire bonds and how, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, noted as one who bent to the prevailing wind, had inaugurated the British preference. Since then, however, he had turned away from any ideals he might have had in that direction. All the indications were in that direction; for instance his treatries with France and those in negotiation elsewhere. He was pushing Canadian independence to the limit. It was significant also that he had announced his determination not to attend the conference of Imperial Premiers because he considered the passing of reciprocity of more importance. And when he was forced to go all the reports showed that he was the wet blanket of the conference. The Laurier influence was set against those propositions which were advanced for the union of the British empire; in fact everything tended to show that the premier had set his heart against what is termed Imperialism. Reciprocity, the speaker argued, was the important step towards the separation of the Mother Country from her eldest colonial daughter. In Canada at present there was in progress an active educational propaganda naving as its object the weaning of the people from the idea of a great Dominion within the Empire and the building up of a sentiment tending towards the consummation of independence. In his hand he held a pamphlet which was being circulated throughout the land. It argued that Canadians owed nothing to Great Britain, that all through history the latter's objects had been purely sordid and materialistic and the concluding pages illustrated how Laurier had steered Canada further and further away from the Imperialistic idea. He did not say that the Dominion Government was doing this but straws showed which way the wind was blowing and those responsible were becoming bold enough to push the argument.

Is It Good Business?

Strange to say the Liberals never put forward the claim for reciprocity that it would help bind together the Empire. They couldn't make such a statement. It was "purely trade agreement" they said. If this was so the people in the different sections of Canada would have to decide the matter from their standpoint, from the conditions existing in the several districts of which they are residents. It would be incumbent upon British Columbians to decide whether, from a bread and butter standpoint, it was a good thing for them. If they went into the matter in this way he had no hesitation to say that they would condemn it unqualifiedly. He spoke of the prosperity in Victoria over twenty years ago, of the coming of the smallpox scare, of the ensuing lean years, and of the beginning about five years ago of another period of prosperity. The city now was fairly in her stride. Everyone was doing well the industries—lumbering, mining, fishing fruit growing, and farming—were in a flourishing condition. There was no necessity for a change. The tariffs were needed to keep the markets of the middle west for the province. He concluded by asking the question—"What is the good of cheap living when there is nothing coming to buy with?" (Applause).

Hearty cheers for Mr. R. L. Borden, Premier McBride, Hon. W. J. Bowser and Mr. G. H. Barnard with the singing of the National Anthem, closed the meeting.

SWINDLER IN TOILS

DENVER, COLO, August 30.—J. F. Worthan, alias Joe A. Mathews, who was arrested in Tacoma on a charge of swindling a Seattle bank out of $17,750, turns out to be Thomas J. Murray, alias Mowrey, who escaped from the Colorado penitentiary on July 25. Murray swindled Denver banks out of $15,000 by clever real estate schemes, and was arrested at the union depot on May 10, 1910, with $14,933 on his person. He was sentenced to five years in the state prison, but while working with a quarry gang escaped.

On August 25th Murray swindled Seattle banks out of $17,750 in one day by the same clever tactics he had employed in Denver, but the bank teller noticed the resemblance the man bore to the picture of Murray appearing in the Detective Bulletin, and called up the detective agency with the result that Murray was arrested in Tacoma, where he went from Seattle and registered at a cheap hotel, with most of the money on his person.

Murray will be brought back to Colorado to serve the remainder of the term and then will be taken to Seattle to answer the charge of swindling there.

Hon. Premier McBride and Hon. Dr. Young returned yesterday from Vancouver, the former leaving again in the afternoon for Nanaimo where he addressed a meeting in Mr. Shepherd's interest last evening.

HERE AND THERE

Young Women's Christian Association.

No one who knows even a little about the life of young women in a city can fail to understand that there is need of careful and organized work among them. Many are homeless and lonely. Some are foolish and thoughtless. All want companionship and the opportunities for self-improvement and wholesome recreation. Influence and instruction in right ways of living and thinking, which, formed so large a part of the home life of the growing girl under the parent's roof is absent when most needed. Wrong, though it may be, it is yet true that the girl who has no home of her own does not find it easy to become intimate in the homes of her city friends. She cannot return their hospitality and a feeling of pardonable pride keeps her from accepting repeated favors. She is almost forced to find her recreation in public places. That this is not without danger we all know.

The Young Women's Christian association was formed a few years ago in Victoria with the idea of affording a home and a social and religious centre for girls, whether strangers or residents. It is not yet a year since a building was purchased which it was believed would be large enough to answer the needs of the association. Already all the space in it is occupied and many have been sent away who would have been glad to occupy rooms there.

While the matron has done all that a good woman in her position could do to help, advise and comfort those who sought her aid, she more than any one else has regretted that so many things had to be left undone that ought to have been done. Young women who were educated abroad and who have leisure at their command are among those who see the need of closer fellowship with those of their own age. The want of a place to meet, of ladies to direct their more serious pursuits, of opportunities for social intercourse, of rational amusements, especially in the winter are felt by those who have known the benefits of these in other cities.

On the 11th of September, two women prominent in the work of the Young Women's Christian association will come to Victoria to tell of the work which it has done and is doing throughout the world. It is to be hoped that a very large audience will assemble in the new Y.M.C.A. hall to listen to what they have to say. The welfare of the young women of Victoria is of interest to every citizen and if the Y.W.C.A. can do anything to promote it, it is worthy the support of all.

A Playground Needed.

The children of the little primary school on Chambers street should have a larger playground. It is a shame that two hundred children and more should be shut into the little plot around the Spring Ridge school.

Even if it were likely that another schoolhouse would be built in the near future the ground on which the building stands and any additional space that would be procured would be valuable. But it is not likely that the present building will be abandoned. It is fairly suitable for its purpose and the district is a populous one. Even for a year it is too bad that little children should be crowded together in a space where real play is quite impossible.

Canada's Mission.

The sentence which closed Earl Grey's farewell address is one which teachers and parents throughout the length and breadth of this vast land should hear and remember. It was "I beseech you to educate and bring up your children in the faith that Canada is destined to fill a proud and splendid mission to the world."

There will be few Canadians in whose hearts these words will not find a ready response. Our country is very dear to us and every year makes the sense of its present greatness and its future possibilities stronger. But Earl Grey is not thinking so much of material resources as of the people who shall grow up in an environment the most favorable to be found in the world. We may well pause to ask what is the destiny and what the mission of the Canadian people. Will each boy and girl feel that as a Canadian, the world of men and women is to be stronger, braver, wiser and purer for his or her life, and that the greatness and honor of Canada should be dearer to each individuual than life itself? There is so much that can be done to raise our national life to a higher plane and to make our children more worthy of Canada than we are. In his residence among us Earl Grey has helped us to see the value of a national ideal. It is ours to follow his leading and to learn that the richness, the beauty, the vastness of this land of ours fits to be home of a great nation which every woman among us, if she will, have some share in fashioning.

The Traveling House Fly.

Most of us are apt to congratulate ourselves, when we read of the likelihood of carrying disease by the housefly, on the fact that there is no typhoid or consumption or other infectious disease near our homes. The following extract from an article in the Saturday Review shows that the fly may be found far from the place of its origin:

"One does not, I think, always realize the extreme mobility of the housefly. The other day I was in a train which was drawn up at a station on the P. L. M. line in France. There was a fly with me in the carriage and the window was open. Presently the Savoie express went by, its speed reduced for the moment to a crawl as it passed over the points of junction. As the waggon restaurant passed my carriage one of the cooks opened a window and put his head out. Instantly my fly left my carriage and flew into the Savoie express; the window was shut and the train de luxe, with its long line of polished and glittering saloons of the International Sleeping Car Company went on its expensive way. The next stopping place, if I am not mistaken would be Dijon; but the fly would probably still be lunching in the restaurant and would hardly alight there. A mouse or a bird or a beetle attempting to use this means of locomotion would have been observed at once and either killed or ignominously ejected; not so the fly. 'It is extremely probable that the same evening he alighted at Geneva, or conceivably went on via Madone into Italy. And wherever he chose to quit the train, whether in Switzerland or Italy, this fly, who had spent the morning before in Paris, would find himself equally at home. Without fares to pay or luggage to pack, and with the briefest of toilets, standing on four legs and brushing the others together two at a time, he was ready to fly out and take possession of whatever part of the world he was in, to dine in the most fashionable restaurants or sleep in the most comfortable hotels, and the moment he felt bored to take ship or train or horse or motor car or aeroplane and travel the world until he was ready to alight again.

Technical Schools.

Dr. Robertson and his associates are still prosecuting their inquiries. In the meantime technical schools are being established in some of the cities of Canada. The latest to be opened is on Sherbrooke street, Montreal.

In a paragraph on the opening of this school the editor draws attention to the fact that, with some exceptions, workmen trained in British, German, or Belgian industries excel those who have learned their trades in Canada. This is a matter worthy of the very serious consideration of the people of this province and of this city. For many years to come there will be work here for highly skilled laborers of many kinds. Will young people be ready to do their share of this work or will the highest positions in the industrial world be filled by men who have received their training in other cities of Canada or in European centres.

A Common Mistake

There is a danger that in these days the older boys and girls in our schools shall not value their privileges highly enough. What their fathers and mothers obtained at a great sacrifice comes easily to them. In our province a good, if not a liberal education is within the reach of almost every young man and woman. But, it is to be feared that the number who are really well educated is not so great in proportion to the opportunities afforded, as it should be. There is an idea abroad that teachers can do anything for the student. Careful thought and earnest effort and unceasing toil are demanded of those who impart knowledge. Parents and pupils imagine that there is a royal road to learning and that if the learner misses it the teacher alone is to blame.

All this is wrong. The pupil, especially in the higher divisions, must do his or her share of the work and it is the greatest share. The teacher can help and direct but he cannot learn for the pupil. The idler had far better be taken from school for he injures not only himself but his neighbors. All this would seem self evident, if it were not so often forgotten, not only by pupils and parents but by the teachers themselves.

LANGFORD'S PLANS

Boston Tar Baby Sails from Victoria Next Month for Australia

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Sam Langford will sail from Victoria on October 7, for Australia, determined to make Jack Johnson "Fight or Crawl."

"Langford is practically forced to leave America because there is nobody left for him to meet," declares his manager. "People know that Sam can do all the big fellows so they don't care to pay good money to see him hammer second-raters into submission. But McIntosh has mapped out a big campaign in Australia. Langford will take part in six fights at Sydney, aside from the prospective mill with Johnson. Bill Lang, Jack Lester, Bill Squires, Sam McVey, Bandsman Rice of England, and probably Dave Smith, the Australian light heavyweight will be served up in twenty-round battles.

"As for the proposed battle with Jack Johnson, we have McIntosh's word that he will arrange it. Johnson has signed a contract with McIntosh which calls for three battles and we figure that his opponents will be Langford, Bill Lang, and Jack Lester. Johnson will receive $100,000 for his services."

JAPS PLAY BALL HERE LABOR DAY

Victoria and Vancouver Nippons Lock in Combat Next Monday Afternoon for Provincial Title.

The premier sporting attraction announced for Monday (Labor Day) is the Japanese baseball match, between the representative teams of Victoria and Vancouver, the stake of which is the British Columbia championship.

"Ever seen two Japanese ball teams locked in combat?"

"Funniest thing you ever saw," declared a fan in answer to the query put by himself to a fellow enthusiast. "They are full of ginger. To them it is not merely a matter of swelling batting and fielding averages and of drawing a pay check. They are out for the glory of the thing and the way they fight from the clang of the gong to the last strike of the ninth inning is a screaming comedy."

"Do they play good ball?" asked the inquiring one.

"Not always errorless," smiled he who explained that he had seen the little men of the Land of the Chrysanthemum in action on the diamonds of their native cities. "But they are in earnest always. Their pitchers wind themselves in the most approved style, into little brown knots, uncoiling rapidly and shooting the ball in the process with the out or the in-shoot demanded by the catcher. And as for rooters—why they have the average American beaten a Salt Lake City block. The backstop keeps up a constant fire of verbal pyrotechnics and the coaches keep their tongues and lungs busy in the attempt to rattle the opposing twirler. It is surprising, too, the class of ball they play. An exacting official scorer might find errors, but the crowd would never grow weary. So I'm anxious to see the Nippons of the two cities mix. I'm sure it is going to be some game."

That is the feeling among the majority of the local baseball fans. For the first time in the history of the game here the Japanese have been brought together. They are confidently expected to furnish the crowd that will gather more amusement than had been provided by a whole week of the kind of work that the Victoria Northwestern League team have been exhibiting lately. The teams are as keen as mustard for the word "play ball" and a close struggle is looked for from the time the first batter walks to the pan to the finish.

WELLS OUTFIGHTS KNOCKOUT BROWN

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Matt Wells, the English lightweight champion, tonight added to his fistic laurels by outboxing and outfighting "Knockout" Brown, the New York lightweight, in ten rounds before one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a pugilistic contest in New York City. The bout, the second to be held under the new boxing law, brought a crowd of probably 14,000 persons to the Gardens.

The British champion was never in danger at any period during the milling, and left the ring unmarked, while Brown was bleeding about the mouth and from a cut under the right eye.

Wells' cool and calculating defense had the American sorely puzzled and he repelled Brown's attack from every angle. Brown could not solve the Englishman's left jab, which played about his face with lightning-like rapidity and kept the American from doing damage at the in-fighting.

Seven of the rounds clearly belonged to Wells. Referee Charley White had to caution both frequently in clinches. The battle gave Brown's championship aspirations severe setbacks.

The popular opinion gave the battle to Wells, but no decision was rendered.

It is stated that the gate receipts totalled $30,000. Brown received 32½ per cent., and Wells 22½ per cent. of the gross receipts.

THREE MATCHES ARE AHEAD OF WOLGAST

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Lightweight Champion Ad Wolgast is to fight three times in Milwaukee during the next few months, Frank Mulkern, the promoter of the Wolgast-McFarland contest, which he expects to stage September 5, made this announcement last night.

"Mulkern secured the champion's consent to the trio of matches, and they have agreed on the two opponents, aside from McFarland. The other men who will face Wolgast in ten round encounters are Matt Wells, champion of England, and "Knock-out" Brown of New York. One of the fights will be put on some time in October and the other about the first of the year. It is understood that Packy McFarland has decided to call off his proposed fight with Leo Kelly in St. Louis on Labor Day.

Week-End Cruise.

Victoria yachtsmen are taking a keen interest in the cruise which has been arranged to take place starting on Saturday and extending over Monday, which is Labor Day and, therefore, a general holiday. Both the members of the Yacht and the Oak Bay clubs are making preparations to participate in the outing. It is expected that the largest fleet of local sailing and motor craft that has felt the port this season will depart this week-end for Montague Harbor, Galiano Island. At that point the Victorians will be joined by a strong Vancouver representation. Sunday and Monday will be spent at the rendezvous, the latter day being marked by a programme of dinghy and other races in which considerable interest already is being evinced.

FAMOUS CRICKET TEAM IS COMING

Philadelphia Eleven will Play Victoria Tomorrow and Saturday—Ball at the Alexandra Club

The Frankford cricket team of Philadelphia will reach Victoria tomorrow for the purpose of spending a couple of days as the guests of the Victoria Club. In the afternoon they will be escorted to the Jubilee Hospital grounds where a local eleven will meet them. That evening there will be a ball at the Alexandra Club in their honor and on Saturday arrangements are being made for an all day game. As the Victoria cricketers hold the Pacific northwest championship and are, beyond a doubt, the strongest team in this district, it is expected that the Philadelphians will receive one of the best games that they have been given in the course of their western tour.

It is seldom indeed that Victoria has the opportunity of entertaining and of trying conclusions with such a distinguished and capable aggregation of cricketers. The team is composed of doctors, business and professional men of all kinds, with college students as well, and is considered one of the premier organizations of the country.

Visitors' Records

The members of the team and their records follow:

Dr. T. R. Currie, a graduate, '94, of the University of Pennsylvania, first played the game in Cheshire, England, and in this country was first identified with the Fairhill Cricket club, a lot of boys in their teens, but a club that had much to do with the starting of rival cricket clubs in and about Kensington, Philadelphia, in the late 80's and early 90's.

W. W. Foulkrod, Jr., has been Frankford's captain on the field and general manager off the field ever since the club's inception and he was present at the club's inception. His work on the cricket field is in no small way a part of Philadelphia's cricket history. He is one of three Philadelphia amateur cricketers who have scored 1,000 runs and taken 100 wickets in one season (J. B. King and G. S. Patterson being the other two).

C. H. Winter, aged 21, developed a high degree of wicket-keeping at the age of 16. He played four years with Central high school, of Philadelphia, and was captain his last year at school. He played four years with the University of Pennsylvania and was captain the last two years. He went to England with the University of Pennsylvania in 1907 and toured with the same team in Canada in 1908, 1909, and 1910, and with the Gentlemen of Philadelphia to Jamaica, B.W.I., in 1909, and represented the U.S.A. against Canada in 1906. He played for the Gentlemen of Philadelphia vs. Gentlemen of Ireland in 1909 at Harvard.

Frank R. Hansell, aged 38, was wicket-keeper for Frankford in its early days, and a wicket-keeper of unusual merit, as his selection by Pittsburg to keep wickets for them in a tournament bespeaks. He is a steady bat, having the record for Frankford in a last wicket stand which yielded over sixty runs against All-Bermuda in 1907.

F. S. Hillies, aged 27, the youngest of the Hilles family of cricketers. He played school cricket with the Friends Select school and was captain his last year at school. He is a rapid run getter, hits hard, and has a style of his own. In the field he is very reliable, taking care of everything that comes his way.

A. L. Hilles, Jr., aged 30, learned his first cricket at the famous Friends Select school, of Philadelphia, where he studied five years, and at the Westown school for four years. He is a steady bat and a hard man to dislodge when set. His batting is not of the stylish kind, but he is a consistent run getter.

R. W. Hilles, age 31, is in a class by himself as an outfielder. He is one of the best in Philadelphia. In chasing the ball he has the grace and fleetness of the deer and the way he gathers in the country catches is thrilling. He represented the United States against Canada in 1909.

Stanley Hart has an excellent record for a young man of 23. He is a dashing and forceful bat, in the stylist class, and has played many brilliant innings. He is a splendid change bowler and seldom fails to break up troublesome stands. At cover point he is a fielder without a peer.

Rudolph Ward, age 24, is a good fast bowler, an aggressive run-getting bat and a brilliant fielder. He played against Canada in 1910.

Harvey M. Wilson, age 25, has played the game since he shed his skirts, because his father and grandfather were enthusiastic cricketers. He is an aggressive batter and has made some very good scores. He is, however, seen to best advantage in the field.

J. W. Potts, age 27, is one of the most brilliant fielders in Philadelphia, a dashing bat and hard to dislodge when once started. He has been the backbone of Frankford's attack for the last ten years.

Bateman Saddington, age 33, can bat, bowl, field, keep wickets and do all of them well, but it is as a wicket keeper that he is best known. He has scored a century twice in club matches.

W. S. Evans, age 25, went to England with the University of Pennsylvania team in 1907, and had the best bowling average of the team. He performed the "hat trick" against Tonbridge school, and made 143 runs. Evans is one of the most stylish left-hand batters in the country and when set gets runs from all quarters of the field.

Aloysius Ward, age 22, has only played cricket the last five years, and as yet has done nothing noteworthy. He is a coming man, however, and his best work at present is as an untiring and clever fielder.

William Fellows, age 21, has at times rendered invaluable service to his side by his effective bowling. He is a medium pace left-hander, and at times unplayable. He has been in Canada twice, and has represented Philadelphia in inter-city matches.

H. K. Fries, age 42, has not played much cricket of late years, but during the early days of the Oxford Cricket club was a tower of strength to his side, both as a bat and as a deceptive leg-break bowler. His delivery is peculiar and puzzling.

Fry to Captain.

Mr. C. B. Fry has been invited to captain the M. C. C. England cricket combination which is about to visit Australia. The following players have likewise been asked to make the long journey to the land of the golden fleece: P. R. Warner (Middlesex), R. H. Spooner (Lancashire), F. R. Foster (Warwickshire), Strudwick (Surrey), Barnes Staffordshire), Hobbs (Surrey), and Rhodes (Yorkshire).

CORINTHIANS TO PLAY LADYSMITH

Celebrated Football Eleven Arrived Here Yesterday and Leaves by Train this Morning—Game Here Saturday

Great Britain's famous amateur soccer team, the Corinthians, reached the city yesterday afternoon, after a short visit in Vancouver, during which they added another victory to their long list by severely defeating the choice of the mainland in an exhibition match. They were welcomed at the boat by Secretary Beaney, of the local football association, and arrangements were completed for a local game on Saturday. This morning the travelers leave for Ladysmith, where they will compete with an eleven which is believed to be the strongest that could be assembled from among the football experts of the up-island centres. It is confidently expected that the Corinthians in this contest, which takes place this afternoon, will come closer to meeting with a reverse than in any arguments in which they have engaged since their defeat at Toronto's hands.

Unfortunate Situation.

Owing to the short time at the command of the Victoria association it will be necessary to hurry preparations for the week-end game. For the same reason it will not be possible to pit against the visitors as strong a team as might otherwise have been put in the field. Had Promoter Parker seen fit to forward the home organization some weeks ago an acceptance of its proposition which was that he take all the receipts, with the exception of whatever amount might be incurred for expenses, Victoria would have had representatives ready for the argument who might have done full justice to the city. As it is it will be hard to muster an eleven that may be depended upon to give the Britishers a real struggle. It is early for football here. Few of the boys are in shape. With due warning they would have had an opportunity to train and would not be in the unfortunate position of having to go on the field altogether raw.

The teams for today's game in all probability, will line-up today as follows:

Corinthians—Goal, C. G. Newman; backs, I. E. Snell and R. G. Thompson; halves, J. A. Vidal, M. Morgan-Owen and F. N. Tuff; forwards, C. E. Brisley, S. H. Day, H. C. Bache, R. C. Maples and B. O. Corbett.

Goal, Dougan (Ladysmith); fullbacks, Rogers (Ladysmith), Hewitt (Nanaimo); halves, Bayley (Ladysmith); White (Nanaimo), Upton (Ladysmith); forwards, Adams (Nanaimo), McGuire (Ladysmith), Adam (Ladysmith), McAdams (Ladysmith), and Waddell (Nanaimo).

POACHER IN NOOTKA SOUND

Arrivals by Tees Tell of Vessel in Friendly Cove—Efforts of Capt. Newcombe to Secure Efficient Patrol

Arrivals by the steamer Tees report that a week ago a gasoline schooner, a United States poaching vessel, which had been working on the grounds off the west coast of Vancouver, island was anchored in Friendly cove, Nootka sound, and her crew was engaged in overhauling the gear.

The fishery protection cruiser Kestrel has been tied up for many weeks at Esquimalt, and the tug William Jolliffe has been chartered to carry on her work, and Capt. Newcombe is on the William Jolliffe. Capt. Newcombe, commander of the Kestrel, has been pleading yearly for the past five years with the Liberal government at Ottawa to protect the fisheries of British Columbia, and until the annual report of the Fisheries department was issued last year, his pleas which formed part of his annual report to the Minister, were published.

Two years ago Capt. Newcombe said when asked in Victoria if the fishing grounds were being depleted by poachers, "They undoubtedly are. When I first went north six years ago, it was not uncommon for a fishing steamer to spend a couple of days on the grounds and go south with from 150,000 to 180,000. Now a vessel that gets a catch like that in eighteen days' fishing is considered lucky.

"That the grounds are being depleted is shown by the diminishing size of the halibut. Four years ago the average size of the fish taken was sixty pounds, often halibut of 150 pounds were taken; now the average is less than 20 pounds. In a catch of 140,000 taken south some weeks ago, the average weight of the halibut comprising it was but twelve pounds. Any fisherman will tell you that when the fish are diminishing in weight as rapidly as are the catches of the fishing fleet in northern waters, the grounds are being rapidly depleted."

That the Dominion government has been long warned of the depletion of the British Columbia fishing grounds by poaching vessels owing to the poor protection given is evidenced by the reports submitted to Ottawa by Capt. Newcombe of the Kestrel.

In his report for 1907 he says a total catch of 39,334,329 pounds of halibut was taken during 1906, of which the New England Co. took 9,414,320 pounds, Tacoma Fish Company, 7,946,666; San Juan Fish Company, 3,973,333, and smaller craft 19,000,000 pounds.

"Each and every one of the above craft, frequent and clean their fish in the harbors of British Columbia when the Kestrel is not there to prevent this violation of our laws, and the destruction of our in-shore fisheries, as it is a well known fact that fish will not frequent waters where dead fish and offal are disposed of.

In 1903 there were three American steamers and thirteen schooners engaged in fishing for halibut in northern waters, and three years afterward 46 vessels were engaged. Today this fleet is more than doubled.

Necessity for Cruiser

Capt. Newcombe ends his report with the following: "I would respectfully urge upon the department the necessity of the cruiser being placed in commission at the earliest possible moment, as at the present rate at which our halibut fishing grounds are being depleted by foreign fishermen, in another six years these now valuable fisheries will be fished out and be worthless, and we will have no fishing industry to protect and a valuable asset to the government of Canada will have ceased to exist."

In the report for 1908, Capt. Newcombe tells how a big fishing steamer escaped seizure owing to the slow speed of the Kestrel, again instancing the need of this long promised fishery cruiser. He said: "We sighted a steamer fishing well inshore at the mouth of Cumshewa inlet. I immediately gave chase, but as they saw us at the same time as we sighted them, she at once ran in and

VIEWS OF ONE LEADING LIBERAL

Says Decision on Reciprocity Pact is Far Greater in Importance Than Question of Party Politics

A prominent feature of Mr. Borden's great meeting at Massey hall, Toronto, on the evening of August 23, was the speech of Mr. W. T. White, who is one of the eighteen Toronto Liberals who have come out in opposition to the Taft-Fielding agreement. Four others of the eighteen were also on the platform: Messrs. W. K. George, J. D. Allen, R. S. Gourlay and G. T. Somers.

"In my opinion," began Mr. White, amid cheers, "this is not a question of party politics. It is greater than Sir Wilfrid. It is greater than Mr. Borden. In this I consider myself neither as a Conservative nor as a Liberal. I support Mr. Borden because he is unalterably (cheers) opposed to reciprocity. If positions were reversed and Sir Wilfrid were opposed to reciprocity, I should support him and oppose Mr. Borden. (Cheers.)

"Anti-reciprocity," he went on, "is my politics at the present time. In this crisis it is the duty of every elector to exercise the best judgment of which he is capable. There is only one question at issue: Are you or are you not in favor of reciprocity?"

This was greeted by loud and sustained cries of "No." With a few calls of "Yes."

"I am glad," answered Mr. White, "that this is a mixed audience for we shall make converts. This is a great referendum for adjudication by the Canadian people." (Cheers.)

Mr. White went on to lay down the principle that Canadian industries, both agricultural and others, need reasonable protection, and then contrasted the prosperity of Canada with the series of panics in the U. S., three in the last ten years, and concluded:

"We have a great heritage and are only at the beginning of our prosperity. Canadian brains and pluck with British money have given us what we enjoy today. Let us continue to control our destiny unhampered by trade agreements with a neighbor, who has been none too friendly with us in the past.

"It is said that Canada got the greatest advertisement of her history when she sent her troops to South Africa. That advertisement will be as nothing compared with the advertisement we shall receive if we reject reciprocity. It will be a new declaration of independence that will ring around the British speaking world." (Prolonged applause.)

WHAT IS GOING TO KEEP THIS UP?

A few days ago, a pessimistic individual asked us this question. Of course, we couldn't answer it in a word, but this is what we said:

IS HASN'T STARTED YET!

If you don't believe in the future of the Dominion of Canada--don't stay here. We are optimistic believers in the future of this, the greatest and richest country on earth--and particularly of BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Our Coal, Iron, Timber, Fisheries and Agricultural resources, can only be roughly estimated.

The world is our market.

VANCOUVER ISLAND alone can contribute largely to the demand of these products. VICTORIA --the Capital--is the first port of call in Canada on the Pacific. Her climatic conditions are sufficient to centre an immense influx of population within her boundaries, and every individual or family that comes here means something for the next one that comes along.

As a consequence, the value of real estate is steadily increasing.

When The Last Man Comes It May Stop But You Won't See That Day

Meanwhile, the opportunity for money making by real estate investment is yours. ARE YOU TAKING ADVANTAGE OF IT?

You may not be able to buy inside business property, but you can buy residential sites and can DOUBLE YOUR DOLLARS.

BROAD ST. HALL THE HEADQUARTERS

Busy Scenes Each Day at the Central Committee Rooms of Conservative Organization

The Broad sreet hall, the headquarters of the Conservative committees in the present campaign, presents a busy scene these days, a large staff of willing workers being assembled there constantly receiving instructions from the honorary secretary of the Conservative association, Mr. W. H. Price. Each day reports are received from the canvassing committees and with the passing of each hour the evidences that Mr. Barnard will be elected over his opponent, Hon. Wm. Templeman, by a heavy majority, accumulate.

The fact that the city is this year divided into wards, with each ward having an organization of its own, is of great assistance in getting a thorough canvass of the electorate, and so well is this work progressing that it will be possible, a considerable time before polling day, to compute with a fair degree of accuracy just what will be the majority Mr. Barnard will have over his opponent. At this date it is put, roughly, at from 500 to 700.

This evening a smoker and rally of Ward 5 Conservatives will be held in the Broad street hall, to which all electors in sympathy with the party are cordially invited. There will be a number of brief addresses by prominent speakers of the party and an instructive and pleasant time is assured all who attend.

AMUSEMENTS

Victoria Theatre—"Forty-Fve Minutes From Broadway, with its catchy music and its wealth of bright snappy dialogue, will be the attraction at the Victoria Theatre on Wednesday, Sept. 6. The production this season is said to be even more elaborate than the first presentation. Several new and novel features have been introduced, including th famous "Blue Ribbon Ponies."

Juvenile Bostonians—That famous organization of children, "The Juvenile Bostonians," opens its local engagement at the Victoria Theatre for two performances on Sept. 4th, the first operetta being "The Rose of Blandon," one of the latest and most tuneful pieces, full of comedy and delightful scenes that are cleverly enacted by the talented youngsters of the Cosgrove and Lang company. The coming of the "Juvenile Bostonians" is a big feature of the year's amusement and the performance should not be missed on any account. For the second night of the engagement "The Ransome" will be the bill.

"The Havoc"—Next Thursday, Sept. 7, at the Victoria Theatre Henry Miller will appear for the first time in the city in his now famous success, "The Havoc," which ran all last season at the Bijou Theatre in New York. The play is a big vital drama of compelling interest, and brings Mr. Miller forward in an even more powerful role than his famous Stephen Ghent in "The Great Divide" and Sidney Carton in "The Only Way." In many years of notable stage achievements, Henry Miller has never more greatly distinguished himself than in the role of Richard Craign, the big central character in the play. The ease, the confidence, the earnestness, the directness and the solidity he gives the character stamps it as a fine piece of acting. The real depths and irony of the man are uppermost in Mr. Miller's portrait of the injured husband. The play has proved one of the most emphatic successes Mr. Miller has produced and aside from its merits as a drama it gives the actor-manager an opportunity for absolutely superb acting. In his entire career on the stage Mr. Miller has never given so forceful, so facile, so convincing a portrayal as that of Richard Craif, in "The Havoc." The engagement of Henry Miller in "The Havoc" will be limited to one night.

"Miss Nobody From Starland"—There is musical comedy and musical farce, and the latter is usually the name applied to a musical concoction in which something has gone wrong. In other words a musical farce is a musical comedy that has made a "fizzle" of it. This technical discussion is only entered into for the purpose of conveying to the general public a faint idea of how good "Miss Nobody From Starland," which appeared at the Vancouver Opera House last evening, really was. "Miss Nobody, etc." is a musical comedy, and as such it stands head and shoulders above anything shown here in many moons. There is not one dull moment in the whole play and every one of the performers is just doing everything possible to make the play the great success it has proved everywhere. "Miss Nobody" is an ambitious young chorus lady, and on her voyage across the Atlantic she meets several persons of the male persuasion who are willing to fall in love with her; how she disposes of her unwelcome admirers and turns their affections into capital for herself is the foundation of the story upon which the playwrights have built up a most entertaining vehicle for the manifold charms of Miss Olive Vail, the vivacious and sprightly prima donna, who proves herself a most excellent comedienne in the title role. Her voice is all that can possibly be expected of a prima donna in comic opera, and her acting is even much better. Miss Bertie Beaumonte, in the part of Nina, displayed vocal and terpsichorean charms that were astounding to say the least. There are also Mr. Lawrence Comer and Mr. Otto Koerner, rivals for the affections of "Miss Nobody," and Mr. Joe H. Nelmeyer, whose agility is truly Cohenesque. But Robert H. Wilson, in the part of Preston Halliday, must be awarded the palm, so to speak, for he is not only a splendid actor but above all a comedian whose work is absolutely a revelation along these lines.

The stage setting is most elaborate and the chorus the best drilled and dressed that has ever appeared on the local stage. The play will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night with a matinee tomorrow afternoon, and if there is anybody who has a particular grouch against himself, just let him stay away from "Miss Nobody" and he will regret it ever after.—Vancouver News Advertiser.

Crystal Theatre—"The Feud," a Lubin drama is intensely interesting; "The Trapper's Daughter" is a picture with the plot laid in Alaska; "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Foxy Lyzy" are two good comedies; "A Russian Gypsy" is a drama with plenty of action; "Water Beetle and Its Young" is educational. Watch us grow. We want your patronage and to get it must give you good pictures, a comfortable seat, good ventilation, [illegible] courteous treatment. We [illegible] all these and [illegible] every day. [illegible] will see some improvement. Watch this space.

Mr. Bonar Law for Leader.

A Timely Warning.

The grave folly, to use no stronger expression, of linking the assured prosperity of Canada with the business fluctuations of the United States, becomes more palpable every day. Industrial conditions south of the border have been anything but reassuring of late and signs are not wanting that a serious decline from the present level of prosperity may be anticipated.

As barometers of general business conditions, the railways stand unique. When, therefore, several of the big roads almost simultaneously announce sweeping reductions in their forces, the fact can hardly fail to provide food for serious reflection. Especially pertinent is such meditation in view of the government's proposition to form a more or less complete commercial partnership with the United States.

From San Francisco comes word that six thousand employees of the Southern Pacific Railway will be dropped from the pay rolls within a week. President Ripley of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad announces a substantial reduction of the sixty thousand employees of that company. Vice-president Park, of the Illinois Central Railway states that their forces will shortly be greatly reduced. The same policy of retrenchment has also been started on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway. The Union Pacific is discharging 2,500 men.

Does the present look like a favorable time to yoke your country to the United States? Fortunately the signs of their coming depression have manifested themselves in good time for the Canadians to take seasonable warning.—Ottawa Evening Citizen.

Mr. R. L. Borden, speaking at Woodstock, Ont., the other day, said: "Sir Wilfrid says that we wanted reciprocity forty years ago, and therefore, we want it today. Let me illustrate. Suppose a husky young Westerner came into his dinner on the farm. What would you think of anyone who would offer him his nursing bottle, because he had wanted it 26 years ago?" (laughter).

Home, Sweet Home

What a host of pleasant memories cluster round the word "Home!" But a house is not a home unless you own it and unless it is built to conform to your highest ideals and the requirements of yourself and your family.

A beautiful, convenient home is impossible without good plans. The perfection of the finished work depends upon the skill, ability and experience of the architect—to the extent he co-operates with his client.

We make a speciality of designing houses—houses that are Homes. Are you thinking of building? If so, you are cordially invited to visit this office and look over the original and effective photographs, sketches and plans for cottages, bungalows and residences of every style and size; or if you cannot call, drop a postal for our magazine.

SADO MARU FROM ORIENT

Nippon Yusen Kaisha Liner Reached the Outer Wharf Yesterday from Kobe and Yokohama

PARTICULARS OF ASAMA'S ERUPTION

Foreigner Among Killed on the Mountain Side—Rich Shipment of Raw Silk on Board the Liner

The steamer Sado Maru, Capt. Richards, of the Nippon Yusen kaisha line, arrived from Kobe and Yokohama yesterday with 85 passengers, including 24 in the saloon, and 2429 tons of general cargo, 313 tons for Victoria. The silk shipment amounted to 1388 bales and cases worth over $800,000. The passengers included Mr. A. W. Playfair, professor of English literature at Keio university. He said that the day before the steamer left Yokohama on August 16th an eruption of Mount Asama took place when six foreigners and many Japanese were on the mountain side. Rev. Mr. Hale, a missionary of Osaka, had both legs crushed by falling stones and died six hours later. Rev. J. E. Detweiler had his leg broken, and Rev. A. Lloyd sustained injuries to his body. Japanese papers say seventeen foreigners and twenty Japanese were missing. Three Japanese who escaped by way of the eastern side of the mountain reported most trying experiences. There were 180 Japanese on the mountain side celebrating the Bon festival. The Japanese papers say that a huge column of black smoke shot up from the mountain with tremendous noise, the sky being lit up and the scene an awe-inspiring one.

On the previous day a Japanese committed suicide by throwing himself into the crater. A policeman attached to Komoro police station made the ascent early the next morning, accompanied by two coolies in search of the body, and while one of the coolies was looking down into the crater the eruption occurred. The coolie was terribly burned, but escaped and reported the occurrence to the Komoro station at the foot of the mountain. About a dozen policemen were dispatched from Karuizawa and Komoro to succor those who were on the mountain.

Passengers Aboard

S. Awaya, head partner of the Awaya-Ikeda company which owned the Ikeda mines on Queen Charlotte islands, arrived by the Sado Maru. The company recently sold the mine to a Vancouver syndicate, but still retains a large interest. He came from Kobe on business in connection with the mine. Other arrivals were Rev. M. J. M. Munro and wife, missionaries from Wenchou, Chekiang, South China; John Sung and C. G. Hoh, two Chinese, the former from Tientsin and the other from Shanghai, bound to the eastern States to take up a course in gymnastics with a view to returning to China for Y. M. C. A. work. Mr. Roguin, a French army officer, came from Tongkin; F. M. Peck, who has been installing boot making machinery, returned from Japan and China; M. Tanaka, director of the big firm of Morimura Bros., arrived from Tokyo. Other passengers were Mrs. A. E. Johnson and the Misses Johnson and Mrs. Ransom, tourists; Miss Campbell, a teacher from Manila; Miss M. M. Paine, and others. There were 20 Japanese in the steerage for Victoria and 27 Japanese and 6 Russians for the United States.

The steamer had a good voyage until when nearing the Vancouver Island coast when fog was encountered. The cargo landed here was: Sulphur, 1682 bags; refined sugar, 650 sacks; miso, 275 casks; onions, 220 cases; soy, 200 casks; porcelain, 145 cases; rice, 124 sacks; provisions, 70 casks; sake, 49 casks; merchandise, 464 packages.

THEKLA ON ROCKS

German Bark Known at North Pacific Ports Goes Ashore off Staten Island Near Terra del Fuego

ANTOFOGASTA, Chile, Aug. 30.—The ship Isebek reports that on July 26 she found the German bark Thekla on the rocks off Staten Island, near Tierra del Fuego. The Isebek saved nine of the crew after six days' work, but a hurricane forced her to abandon further efforts at rescue. The rest of the crew were left to their fate, and it is not known whether they reached shore.

LAUNCH HECATE SEIZED

Americans Capture Prince Rupert Vessel for Running over Border Without Papers

Word has been received from Ketchikan that the launch Hecate, of Prince Rupert, has been seized by the United States government authorities, while running on the American side of Nakat Inlet, without proper papers. The Hecate had been chartered in Prince Rupert jointly by F. T. Hope of Seattle and George J. Tsiveglou of New York, for the purpose of locating a cannery site. Caspar Malmsberg, captain of the Hecate, is not only in danger of losing his vessel by confiscation, but is also liable to a personal fine.

CATCH OF PELAGIC SEALERS OF JAPAN

Fleet of 52 Vessels Went Out this Season—Three Wrecked, One Seized—Topliner Took 493 Skins

Advices were brought by the Sado Maru that according to reports from the captain of the Japanese warship Naniwa, which recently returned to Otaru from her cruise in the Bering Sea, and the captain of the Kaio Maru, a sealing vessel, the total number of Japanese vessels engaged in sealing on the northern Pacific Ocean this year is 52, of which three vessels sank, while one was captured by the Russian authorities, the actual number remaining being 48. The number of skins secured by the Kaio Maru and seventeen other vessels is about 2850, the catches of the Kaio Maru being the largest, with 493.

ARRESTED TWO ON SOUND STEAMER

Second Officer and Boatswain of City of Seattle Taken from Steamer at Prince Rupert

The Seattle Times says: "It was learned here today that following the arrival of the steamship City of Seattle from Skagway, British authorities had boarded the vessel while she was in Prince Rupert and placed Second Officer Oscar Anderson and Boatswain Engelbretson under arrest. While no one connected with the Pacific Coast Steamship company at this end of the line knows anything about the case and no explanation was advanced by the officers who arrested the men at Prince Rupert, it is believed that they were taken in charge in connection with the looting of the wrecked steamship Cottage City.

"After the Cottage City had been wrecked and Captain Jansen left the ship she was placed in charge of Engelbretson and Anderson. Soon after this time various valuables which were part of the ship's equipment were found in the possession of Indians living near the scene of the wreck.

"Press dispatches sent out from Victoria and Vancouver at the time stated that the Canadian government was powerless to punish the Indians but that it would endeavor to find out how the ship's property came into their possession.

"The arrest of the City of Seattle's two officers is supposed to be the result of an investigation by the Canadian authorities. According to several of its officials, the Pacific Coast Steamship company is not prosecuting the two officers and knows nothing of the reason for their arrest."

WEIR LINE VESSEL ASHORE AT TONGA

Knight of St. George Wrecked on Way to Antipodes from Puget Sound—Crew Reaches Shore

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Aug. 30.—The British steamer Knight of St. George, from Tacoma July 20, and San Francisco July 25, for Sydney, N.S.W., ran ashore on Tongatabu, one of the southernmost islands of the Tonga group, last Saturday. The vessel lies in a bad position and it is doubtful whether the cargo can be salved, as water is flowing through her hull. There were no casualties. The tidings of the wreck were brought here today by the British steamer Strathardle, bound from Sydney, N.S.W., for San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—The steamer Knight of St. George, reported wrecked in the South Seas, carried a valuable cargo of products and merchandise under charter to the Australian Mail line. No cargo manifests were filed at the local customs house and the local agents, Frank Waterhouse & Co., are unable to estimate the loss.

Princess May Decision.

The decision of the marine court which sat on August 15th at Vancouver to nquire concerning the stranding of the steamer Princess May at Sentinel island on August 5th, 1910, consisting of Mr. Justice Martin and Captains A. Reed and C. Cullington will be given this morning at 11 o'clock.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

REVOLUTION IS PENDING

Missionary from China Says all that is Needed is Leader to Start Great Rising Against Dynasty

Rev. J. M. Munro, of the China Inland mission, who arrived by the Sado Maru from Wenchou, South China, said a great revolution, widespread in its scope, against the present dynasty was probably, in fact, all that the malcontents needed was a leader. Canton has always been a hive of insurrection, and at any time there may be an outbreak there, but more serious is the great wave of disaffection in the big Yangtse valley, where the whole countryside is steeped in the revolutionary idea. The troops are affected, and with the coming of a leader there would be such a rising as would transcend the great Taiping rebellion.

Rev. Mr. Munro, with another missionary, was caught in the mob during the recent rice riots at Wenchou just before he left. Following the rise in price of rice there had been much smuggling and the magistrate secured the arrest of three leaders of the smugglers. The people rose and attacked and looted the rice shops of the big walled city. They then went to the yamen and seized the magistrate and hustled him, bareheaded and partly dressed in a downpour of rain through the crowded city street and outside the gate to a big pit filled with water and forced him in to his neck. Then they waited, telling the magistrate they would drown him unless he caused the reduction of the price of rice and freed the arrested smugglers. With the mob clustered around him, threatening to force his head under the water, the official had no option and the smugglers were released and rice lowered in price by ten cash.

There is much opium still grown in this district, Rev. Mr. Munro said, and shortly before he left a magistrate who went out to force the farmers to cut down the opium was seized and killed.

TYPHOONS STOP THE SALVAGE WORK

Sado Maru Brought News that Inclement Weather has Interfered with Efforts to Save Empress

The steamer Sado Maru of the Nippon Yusen kaisha, which reached port yesterday, reported that the day before she left Yokohama a heavy typhoon blew off shore and it was expected this would interfere with the salvage of the wrecked C. P. R. liner Empress of China. Officers of the Sado Maru stated that a wireless message was received when the steamer was three days out, reporting that another strong typhoon was in progress. When the Sado Maru left, the cargo of the white liner had all been landed and the steamer was in the same position.

It is unofficially reported here that the big Hill liner Minnesota will take the next scheduled steaming, in the Canadian Pacific company's line from British Columbia to the Orient replacing the wrecked steamer Empress of China. It is said the Minnesota will load as usual on the Sound, but in leaving, will call at Vancouver and Victoria for Canadian Pacific passengers and freight, the scheduled date being September 13.

The Minnesota is now en route from the Orient, having left Yokohama August 19. Several days ago it was reported from Vancouver that she was bringing the mail for the Empress liner and would probably call at the British Columbia ports en route to Seattle. She is expected to reach the Sound the last of the week. The Minnesota is bringing a large cargo of general freight including valuable shipments of hemp.

The Blue Funnel liner Oanfa left the Orient the same day as the Minnesota. She is coming to this port with a large cargo of general freight, including a valuable shipment of raw silk. The Oanfa is also due here the last of the week.

Both vessels are equipped with wireless and should be reported off the cape soon. The Minnesota has already distinguished herself by sending a wireless from more than 2,000 miles off the coast.

A record shipment both of hemp and general cargo, is approaching this port from the Orient on the new Waterhouse liner Orteric, which last Saturday left Yokohama for Seattle.

Approximately 23,425 bales of hemp were loaded on the Orteric at Manila and in addition to this great shipment the vessel is bringing 3,694 tons of freight on through bills of lading to overland points and 3,147 tons for delivery at Seattle and distribution to coast points. Besides this cargo, the Orteric, on what practically is her maiden voyage, is bringing 635 bales of raw silk worth $320,000 and 115 bags of mail. A score of passengers in the first cabin and fifty-seven in the Asiatic steerage are travelling by the liner. The Orteric is due at Victoria September 8.

STEAMERS ARRIVE FROM NORTHERN PORTS

Princess Royal, Prince George and Venture Return—Prince Albert Soon to Start

With a full complement of passengers the steamer Princess Royal, Capt. Neroutsos, of the C. P. R., reached port yesterday from Skagway, the Prince George, Capt. Saunders of the G. T. P., arrived from Stewart and Prince Rupert, and the Venture, Capt. Morehouse, of the Boscowitz Steamship company, arrived from Naas and northern B. C. ports. The passengers of the G. T. P. liner included Mr. J. I. Paterson of the Moran shipyards, and wife, Sol. Cameron, George Beggs, L. P. Lindsay, M. L. Gordon, M. Coran, C. Rowe, Mrs. Van Elkins, C. C. Michener, Hon. Dr. Young, Dr. Kergin, A. C. Roberts, J. A. Owen, F. Ropes, A. C. Mitchell, A. W. Whitehall, F. A. Mitchell, W. M. Thompson, T. J. Marshall, J. W. Tupton, Mrs. E. Cox, and Miss Adams.

The steamer Prince Albert of the G. T. P. has completed her overhaul at Esquimalt, and will start service on Saturday, alternating with the Henriette. The calls of the Prince Albert are more numerous than those of the Henriette, and she will proceed further north, the smaller freighter merely going as far as Prince Rupert. As far as the Northern Terminal City the calls of the two vessels are the same, being Powell River, Alert Bay, Hardy Bay, Rivers Inlet canneries, Namu, Bella Bella, Wark Island, Swanson Bay, Ocean Falls, Lowe Inlet, Claxton, Port Essington, Skeena River canneries and Prince Rupert. North of Prince Rupert the Prince Albert will make calls at Port Simpson, Noose Bay (Observatory Inlet) and the Naas River canneries.

KILLED AT NANAIMO

Two Men Lose Lives Through Accident in East Wellington Mine—Caught by Runaway Cars

NANAIMO, B. C. Aug 30.—A serious accident occurred at the Vancouver-Nanaima Coal Company's mine at East Wellington today, whereby David Drake was killed and F. Turnstall so badly injured that he succumbed in the hospital this afternoon.

The accident occurred this morning near the foot of the slope. A trip of eight cars was being hoisted when the second car got off the track. Drake and Turnstall were among the men who went to get the box cars on to the track. This was accomplished, and when the signal to hoist away was again given Drake was below the trip and Turnstall at the side. The trip had barely began to move when the link coupling the first and second cars broke and seven cars dashed back down the steep incline.

Turnstall managed to get partly clear but Drake was caught by the runaway cars and instantly killed. Tunstall sustained serious injuries, among which were broken legs. He was removed to the hospital for treatment, but died from the result of his injuries at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Drake was a well known Nanaimo man and is survived by a widow and one child.

picked up her dories and escaped before we could reach her; thus another valuable prize of $75,000 was lost for want of a fast cruiser. The steamer proved to be the Manhattan, owned by the New England Fish Company.

"What we want is more boats, and we want them now, if we are going to preserve our halibut fisheries on this coast," says the captain of the Kestrel.

It is the same plaint he has made to Ottawa for years, and Ottawa has made no answer.

Concluding his report for 1908, Capt. Newcombe says: "It is a fact that many of these banks are fast being ruined, and without further protection, our halibut fisheries will soon be something of the past. The large fishing firms recognize this, and instead of building the regular type of fishing vessels, are now building vessels, that when not used for fishing, can be put to other purposes. We have at present the finest fishing banks in the world, and it seems a shame to let them become depleted when with proper protection they would last for years to come; but at the present rate of the increase of fishing, one of the finest assets of the Dominion of Canada will have passed forever. We need more boats and we want them now."

Some months ago Capt. Newcombe induced Mr. Brewster to aid him in his pleas for fishery protection, and commissions were given to two whalers to act as fishery cruisers. MESOPOTAMIA NO LAND OF ROMANCE TO HIM

Sir William Willcocks Tells of Great Irrigation Works Planned to Make Historic Country Fertile

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 30.—Sir William Willcocks, who has just resigned his position as adviser to the Turkish ministry of public works for the irrigation of Mesopotamia, on account of poor health, summarizes his work in these words:

"I submitted to the Ottoman government reports and plans for six projects, estimated to cost $75,000,000 for irrigation works and $65,000,000 for agricultural works. The land to be irrigated includes 3,000,000 acres. I recommended for immediate execution the Feluja project on the Euphrates, which will cost $25,000,000 for irrigation works and the same amount for agricultural work. Feluja includes one and a quarter million acres of the best land in Mesopotamia."

Sir William states that to him the romance of Mesopotamia has passed away and that he confined himself to projects which were real and practicable.

No irrigation engineer who has travelled through Mesopotamia can fail to have been struck by the great difference between the delta of the Nile and the joint deltas of the Euphrates and Tigris. The Nile is in flood from August to October, and the turbid waters can be retained in the historic basins of Egypt and discharged back into the falling river in November. This permits of the winter cultivation, without further irrigation, of rich fields of wheat, barley, beans, and clover.

Such a system of irrigation is impossible in Mesopotamia. The rivers are in flood in March, April, and May, while the floods are followed by the burning and rainless months of June, July, and August, in which irrigation must be practised, if any crop is to be brought to maturity. Thus, while Egypt has been for thousands of years the home of basin irrigation, Mesopotamia was the home of perennial irrigation.

In Ancient Days.

According to Herodotus the whole country of Mesopotamia was studded with "a vast number of great cities," and grain commonly returned two-hundredfold to the sower. Cultivation depended on irrigation, which was supplied by a large number of canals. Pliny and Berosus are eloquent on the subject of the agricultural wealth of the country. And Ammianus Marcellinus states that from the point reached by Julian's army to the shores of the Persian gulf the country was one continuous forest of verdure.

Today the traveller contemplates a different landscape. On the Upper Euphrates and as one approaches Babylon there are great stretches of salted land, interspersed with bare plains and low sand-drifts. There are also alternate stretches of level country, covered with a thorny, leguminous plant which dies down in winter, and the same bare plains which are met in the north. All this land is capable of easy levelling and reclamation. The presence of 15 per cent. of lime in the soil renders reclamation very easy compared with similar work in the dense clays of Egypt. One is never far away from the giant banks of old canals and the ruins of ancient towns. As one goes south the salted land increases in area, and then the marshes begin with their stretches of rice.

The Tigris-Euphrates delta may be classed as an arid region of some 5,000,000 hectares (about 12,500,000 acres). A part of this area is the delta of the Dayla. This latter is well irrigated by the Khalis, Khorassan and Beled Ruz canals, and needs only good regulating heads, bridges and drains to be an area of first class irrigated land. Another area of well irrigated land is the lower Euphrates. A fair amount of irrigation is performed by "Chareds" worked by mules and oxen along the whole length of the Euphrates and in scattered places on the Tigris. All these areas together form but a small fraction of the delta which is in need of irrigation on broad lines, if anything is ever to be made of it.

Need of Irrigation

The crops of the winter season, consisting principally of wheat, barley, beans and roots, need irrigation from November to May; the summer crops of millets, lubia beans, sesame, melons and inferior rice need irrigation from April to the middle of July. Superior rice needs irrigation from April to September during September and October water would be needed for gardens and possibly for cotton of superior grades, when this crop assumes a higher place in the agriculture of the country than it holds today.

Of lands with requirements such as these, remarked Sir William Willcocks, President Roosevelt has well said that it is water, not land, which measures production. The discharges of water of the Euphrates and Tigris are enormous, and should meet, if properly directed, all the requirements of perfect irrigation.

The whole area of 5,000,000 hectares in the Delta is not capable of being irrigated at the same time. Sir William submitted an excellent scheme for the utilization of available water to the best advantage. Never in the history of Mesopotamia has the whole of the country been under irrigation at one and the same time. To meet the requirements of irrigation the Tigris and Euphrates are happily placed in respect of their relative levels.

All the Mesopotamian rivers are liable to very heavy and sudden floods, capable of inundating the country, and in Sir William's irrigation schemes account is taken of this factor, and provision made against it. He decided that the natural way is to follow the practice of the ancient Egyptian and Babylonian engineers, and to confine attention to one bank of each river, and insure that bank against inundation. The floods will be allowed to waste their energies on the other bank. As years go on and the outlets for the rivers are improved and the banks solidified, it will be possible to begin work on the other bank of each river, but it is not so today.

Monumental Works

The schemes for the so-called Hindia Barrage, the one that received much practical attention from Alexander the Great, the schemes to guard against the extensive floods of the Euphrates and the Tigris, the plans for the proposed Feluja Barrage on the Euphrates and for the right Tigri scanal, the works of drainage, forests, and navigation, the details of the irrigation works at Basra, etc., have all been worked out with the greatest precision by Sir William. The financial aspects of the scheme are clear and concise, and so simple that the Turks will find no difficulty in following them.

That the works will be exceedingly remunerative, Sir William has no doubt whatever. All that is needed is the good will of the Ottoman government. His parting word was an appeal to the new spirit which animates Young Turkey.

Pathetic are the following words of Sir William: "The last voyage I made before coming to Turkey was up the Nile, from Khartoum to the great Equatorial lakes. In this most desperate and forbidding region described by travellers as 'damp hell,' I was filled with pride to think that I belonged to a race whose sons, even in this inhospitable waste of waters, were struggling in the face of a thousand disencouragements to introduce new forest trees and new agricultural products, and to ameliorate in some degree the condition of life of the naked and miserable inhabitants.

"How should I have felt if in traversing the deserts and swamps which today represent what was before the Arab conquest the richest and most famous tract of the world, I had thought that I was a scion of a race in whose hands God had placed, for hundreds of years, the destinies of this great country, and that my countrymen could give no better account of their stewardship than the exhibition of two mighty rivers flowing between deserts to waste themselves in the sea for nine months in the year and desolating everything in their way during the remaining three.

No Effort Too Great.

"No effort that Turkey can make can be too great to roll away the reproach of these parched and weary lands, whose cry ascends to heaven."

Sir William mentioned some of the difficulties of the work. These were peculiar to the country, such as the absence of water in the interior, the large marshes which form close up to the river in flood-time, greatly impeding the movements of the baggage animals, and the inter-tribal troubles, which in a few places prevented the work from being carried out. With respect to the difficulties encountered owing to the absence of water, it may be stated that the Egyptian army "fantassees," or metal water-cans, were found invaluable.

With regard to the agricultural possibilities of Mesopotamia, Sir William thinks that the climatic conditions of the country lead one to the conclusion that with a kind soil and an efficient system of irrigation practically all those crops which flourish under a sub-tropical sun, might be successfully grown. During the winter or cold weather season, extending from November to May, the ordinary cereal crops of wheat and barley should succeed admirably; in fact, they are extensively cultivated at present, as also is rice.

The conditions seem to be quite suitable also for the numerous oilse crops so well cultivated in India and other Eastern countries. Beans, maize, cotton, etc., would grow admirable under efficient irrigation. Winter forage would present no difficulty. From the point of view of quality, Mesopotamia would yield the best cotton.

NEW YORK GIANTS VS. THE ATHLETICS

Post Season Baseball Series May Result in Repetition of 1905 Struggle

With the Giants of New York out in front in the National league race again, the world's series of 1911 may be a repetition of the contests in 1905 when the New Yorkers and Athletics of Philadelphia had it out. On that occasion the Giants won four of the five games from the Mackmen.

There are many who believe the Athletics would defeat the Giants if they again meet this fall. It seems that John McGraw is in command of an inferior team to the one he owned six years ago. On the other hand, the Athletics are generally believed to be stronger than the team that represented the American league in the world's series of 1905.

But few of the men who engaged in the 1905 series would be seen in action this year. None of the Giants, save the pitchers and Arthur Devlin, who is no longer a regular on McGraw's team, are now members of the New York team. Of the old Athletics, Briscoe, Lord, Danny Murphy, Topsy Hartsel, Harry Davis and some of the pitchers remain. Davis and Hartsel are no longer regulars.

Another Giants-Athletics would bring together those famous veterans, Christopher Mathewson and Chief Charles Bender. They had it out in the former series, Matty winning, 2-0, although Bender had the better of the hit argument, 6-5. Incidentally, Bender won the only game of the series from the Giants defeating Joe McGinnity and Leon Ames 3-0.

Today McGraw has no man like Roger Bresnahan to do his catching. His outfield will probably hit as hard and is as fast as the old Brown-Mertes-Conlin combination, but the in-field isn't as air tight. Matty is still pitching winning ball, but is hardly the same wizard that he was six years ago. However, instead of McGinnity the Giants now have Marquard as the next best bet to Big Six.

Bender is probably as good today as he was when he last faced the Giants. Eddie Plank, although a veteran now, still seems to have his old cunning. A two-hit game against the Browns a week ago last Sunday shows that he is far from through as a big leaguer. Then Mack has John Coombs, Harry Morgan, and a flock of juveniles to fall back on.

For the last two seasons the Athletics have figured as real pennant contenders. They won last season and will probably repeat this year.

While Chief Bender was Mack's main reliance last season, the Indian received valuable aid from John Coombs, the Maine iron man, but the New Englander has not had such a successful campaign this season. However, it is probable that he is being nursed along by the wise Cornelius and will do his real work when the world's series battling is on.

But when Coombs fell down, Eddie Plank came to life again. He did his share of the work last season, but the real work was left to Bender and Coombs. This season, though, Plank is proving a great aid to the Philadelphians.

BUSINESS LOTS FOR BUSINESS MEN AT Fort George

The big money in real estate is made by those who buy business lots at the beginning of a city.

Knowing what you do now, if you had the opportunity of buying at prices prevailing a few years ago, you would not hesitate to buy on Hastings or Granville streets, Vancouver; Main street or Portage avenue, Winnipeg; Jasper avenue, Edmonton; or Eighth avenue, Calgary.

You would not be buying at Shaughnessy Heights, Tuxedo Park or any of the outlying additions no matter how high-sounding the name or how many boulevards or parks they might have; notwithstanding the fact that lots in these additions are first-class investments but

BUSINESS LOTS FOR PROFIT

Most people cannot afford to buy business lots in the streets mentioned above at present prices.

It is possible however to get in at the starting point of what will be undoubtedly a place of as much importance.

In making an investment in real estate the most essential thing to do is to pick out the progressive cities and examine into their possibilities.

What are their natural advantages?

After you have looked them all over and considered the good and bad points, then you will find out that

Fort George has every natural advantage possessed by all the others combined.

One of the prospective cities will be a railroad centre.

Another has coal mines.

This one has timber lands.

Another will talk of the fine climate.

That one is the centre of an agricultural district.

Fort William and Fort Arthur will talk to you about their ore transportation.

Stewart will talk of her mines.

Some other places may have a great waterpower.

FORT GEORGE HAS THEM ALL

Don't overlook this point. It means that Fort George has a combination of all the resources possessed by all the other cities of Western Canada (except that she is not an ocean port).

Fort George is the geographical and strategic commercial centre of British Columbia. British Columbia is Canada's largest and richest province.

You should know all about Fort George and British Columbia. Let us send you map, plans and official information free.

DEPUTATION MAY BE SENT TO OTTAWA

Residents of Islands Using All Means in Their Power to Get Efficient Mail Service for Their District

A public meeting of the Salt Spring Island Development League was held in the Mahon Hall, Ganges, on Saturday last to discuss the islands mail service. A committee was formed to interview the candidates at the forthcoming election and to lay before them the wishes of the residents that the mails should be carried by the C. P. R.

A resolution was also unanimously passed empowering the chairman to select a representative delegation to go to Ottawa if necessary.

OPEN SECRET WHO WILL GET CONTRACT

St. John Most Probable Site for Shipbuilding Yards Where Canadian Naval Vessels will be Built

Mr. Templeman said at the Liberal meeting held at Esquimalt, according to the Times report, when referring to the construction of the Canadian navy.

"The company which gets the contract will decide where the works will be established. The price will be considerably higher than if the ships were constructed in England, higher by from 30 to 40 per cent. How much higher it would be if construction takes place on the Pacific ocean I do not know, but it will be higher. These are all points which the government has yet to discuss and decide. I am not going to say —because I am not in a position to say —whether any portion of the navy will be built at Esquimalt or not. But I think it is possible that part of it may be."

The following despatch is sent to Canadian newspapers from St. John, N. B.:

"Mr. John Reid, representative of the great shipbuilding firm of Cammell, Laird & Company, visited St. John last week and held a conference with members of the city council. While the contract for the construction of the Canadian naval vessels has not yet been awarded, there seems to be good reason to believe that Cammell, Laird & Company may be the successful tenderers. The Canadian Gazette of London, on August 10, expressed the belief strong hope that they would get the contract, and that its plant would be erected at St. John. The Liverpool Echo of August 3 quoted the company's managing director as saying that he had strong hope that they would get the contract, and that they had decided upon St. John as the best site for a shipyard. While in St. John Mr. Reid said that the port offered many inducements, because it is an open port all the year round, and because many large harbor works are contemplated, including docks piers, breakwater, etc. His purpose in visiting St. John was to learn what inducements the city and province would offer to the company if they should get the contract and should decide upon this location. Referring to the magnitude of the works, Mr. Reid said that the company would employ at least a thousand men at the outset and the number would gradually be increased to two thousand. The keel of the first ship would have to be laid within a year and the work would be carried on continuously for six years. After that time there would doubtless be other work to keep the yards moving."

LIMITS OF EXPRESS COMPANIES' OPERATION

Delivery Boundaries May be Increased as Result of Hearing Before Railway Commissioners Today

The hearing before the railway commission relative to the fixing of the zones of collection and delivery for express companies in Victoria and Vancouver will begin in the latter city today. City Solicitor F. A. McDiarmid left yesterday for Vancouver to look after the city's interests and a number of prominent local business men are also attending the hearing.

The full text of the order issued by the commission on which the present hearings are being based is as follows:

1. That on and after the 1st of June, 1911, it shall be the duty of all express companies subject to the jurisdiction of the parliament of Canada in all cities, towns or villages where such companies now or hereafter have collection and delivery services to collect and deliver traffic at and to all points within municipal boundaries or limits of such cities, towns and villages and after that date all existing delivery limits shall be abolished.

2. Leave is reserved to the said companies to at once apply to the board for the establishment of reasonable collection and delivery zones in cities, towns or villages (if any) that for any special reasons it might be unreasonable to require collection and delivery services to be made throughout the entire area thereof.

3. Upon such application (if any) the companies shall file with the board a map or maps showing the limits proposed by them and furnish all other necessary information to enable the board to determine the reasonableness thereof.

J. P. MABEE,
Chief Commissioner.

PURIFIED HIS BLOOD

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Healed Mr. Wilson's Sores

When the sewers of the body—bowels, kidneys and skin ducts—get clogged up, the blood quickly becomes impure and frequently sores break out over the body. The way to heal them, as Mr. Richard Wilson, who lives near London, Ont., found, is to purify the blood. He writes:

"For some time I had been in a low, depressed condition. My appetite left me and I soon began to suffer from indigestion. Quite a number of small sores and blotches formed all over my skin. I tried medicine for the blood and used many kinds of ointments, but without satisfactory results. What was wanted was a thorough cleansing of the blood, and I looked about in vain for some medicine that would accomplish this.

At last Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills were brought to my notice, and they are one of the most wonderful medicines I have ever known. My blood was purified in a very short time, sores healed up, my indigestion vanished. They always have a place in my home and are looked upon as the family remedy."

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cleanse the system thoroughly. Sold by all dealers at 25c a box. 6

HEAVY BUYING CHECKS DECLINE

Prices Go Down Before Bear Raid and Are Later Lifted—Unfavorable Reports of Harriman Lines

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A sharp drive at stocks at the opening of today's trading carried several issues to the low prices of the year. The movement, which was regarded as a bear raid rather than a renewal of liquidation, was checked by buying which forced back prices to yesterday's closing level, and during the rest of the day fluctuations were of small consequence. A further attempt to weaken the market by means of an attack on Lehigh Valley caused that stock to decline nearly 3 points late in the day, but had only slight effect elsewhere, and the session ended with only small net changes among the active issues.

Among the railroad stocks, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Missouri Pacific and Chesapeake and Ohio fell below the previous bottom figures of the present depression, as did International Harvester and several other less prominent industrials.

Some influence was exerted on sentiment by better crop news and by the July railroad returns which, as a whole, have been unexpectedly favorable. The reports of the Harriman lines, however, revealed declines in net earnings of $362,000 for Union Pacific and $143,000 for Southern Pacific. The effect of these returns and of further uncertainty as to the outcome of labor difficulties was seen in the continued weakness of the Harriman stocks.

Reports of a threatened strike on a large eastern road increased uneasiness over the general labor situation.

Optimistic statements in regard to the copper trade were made by several large producers, who said August should be one of the best months that trade has experienced this year. European consumers have bought moderately, and the domestic demand has been on a satisfactory scale.

On the curb Standard Oil lost two-thirds of yesterday's jump of nearly five points.

The bond market was irregular. Total sales (par value) $1,350,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.
